IKE TO TAKE PROGRAM DIRECT TO PEOPLE

Appeal Slated As Plans Start To Bog Down

No Decision Yet Made On Manner, Timing Of Chief's Appearance

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower plans to go directly to the people in an effort to rally support for his bogged-down legislative program. But there has been no decision yet on the manner and timing of the appeal.

Press Secretary James C. Hagerty told news conference today that a decision probably will be deferred until after the President confers Thursday with congressional leaders on the administration's foreign aid program.

In response to questions, Hagerty said the White House so far has made no request to television and radio networks for time for a nationwide presidential address.

He added that he does not look for Eisenhower to make any such address this week, but emphasized he was not ruling out the possibility of a request for network time later.

The press secretary repeated that he wanted to stress there has been "no final decision on the format or form" that any appeal by Eisenhower may take.

HAGERTY SAID he thought he had made it clear at a news conference a week ago that the President "intends to keep talking about many things, including his budget and foreign aid."

As an example of appeals Eisenhower already has made, Hagerty cited Eisenhower's informal talk last week to a delegation representing the League of Women Voters. In that speech the President plugged the administration's foreign aid program.

The budget for the fiscal year starting July 1 calls for $4.4 billion in foreign aid.

That program, as well as El-

Girl, 16, Continues Fast Into 18th Day

CHATTANOOGA, Tenn. (AP)—Sixteen-year-old Evelyn Jenkins began today the 18th day of what she plans to be at least a 21-day religious fast.

The pretty brunette, who says she had never been a member of a church until she joined the Voice of Faith Temple last fall, began the fast for the "glory of God."

Her minister, the Rev. R. C. Cook, described the girl's appearance as "a little delicate."

Evelyn says at the end of three weeks "it will then be God's will whether I continue or not."

Evelyn spends each day reading the Bible, praying and meditating in a wooded area near her aunt's home, where she is now living.

Final Tribute to McCarthy

MARINE PALLBEARERS carry the casket of the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy down the steps of the Senate after solemn tributes were paid to him. Wisconsin Holds Last Rites For Sen. Joseph McCarthy

APPLETON, Wis. (AP)—The altar and the flag were described today as the "epitome of the life" of the late Sen. Joseph R. McCarthy.

The Rev. Adam Grill, pastor of St. Mary's Roman Catholic Church, made the statement in a sermon prepared for the third and final funeral service for the Wisconsin Republican who died Thursday of a liver ailment.

McCarthy's body was flown to Wisconsin Monday following church services in Washington and a funeral service in the United States Senate.

"Before us we see the flag-draped casket of the senator. May Almighty God be good to him," Father Grill said. "If our God would allow him to use his lifeless arms, Sen. McCarthy would point out to all of us two objects in this church as an expression of his whole life. He would first

Mutt Named Sole Heir to $50,800 Fund

READING, Pa. (AP)—Bobby, a 4-year-old mutt who has no conception of the meaning of pedigree and doesn't care, today is the richest dog in Reading and one of the richest in the world.

Bobby Monday was named principal, and practically sole, beneficiary of the estate of his late mistress, Mrs. Ruth A. Maurer. The estate, filed for probate in Berks County court-house, was estimated at $50,800.

All the money was left to care for the mongrel dog Mrs. Maurer picked up as a pup from the Humane Society.

Under terms of the will, Bobby will (1) have a practical nurse to look after him, (2) sleep in his own bed in the air-conditioned bedroom once occupied by his mistress, (3) have full run of Mrs. Maurer's three-room apartment and (4) be taken for a walk every morning and evening.

Mrs. Maurer died April 29. She was a widow. She lived quietly and nothing was available on her personal background.

Announcement of the trash pick-up plan was announced by Robert Willis, co-chairman of the committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the campaign, after discussing it with city and county officials.

Usually, in the past, the trash pick-up has been by wards, one day for four days. But this year, the entire city is to be covered in the one day Saturday,

Beverly Walls Trial June 3

Pleads Not Guilty To Embezzlement

Beverly Clickner Walls, 22-year-old former Washington C. H. girl accused of embezzling $9,700 from the Washington C. H. High School activities fund, pleaded not guilty to the charge at her arraignment before Judge John H. Houston of Georgetown in Common Pleas Court here Tuesday morning.

Judge Houston, sitting by assignment, set her trial for June 3 in Common Pleas Court here at the afternoon session.

Indicted Feb. 22, the one-time WHS honor student is accused of embezzling the funds during 1954 and 1955, while a $50 a week clerk in the WHS principal's office.

Sanity hearing of Lawrence Snyder, 23, of near Jeffersonville, was also scheduled for the afternoon. Snyder has been found guilty of taking indecent liberties with a 12-year-old Washington C. H. boy at the city park here last September.

Snyder was judged insane after a 30-day stay at the Lima State Hospital for the Criminally Insane.

Women Voter Group To Get New Proposal

TOLEDO (AP)—A move toward streamlining county government in Ohio will come up at the 30th annual meeting of the League of Women Voters of Ohio which opened here today.

Mrs. Fred Davis of Lima, third vice president of the League and its lobbyist in the Ohio Legislature, said she would urge the 250 delegates to get behind two streamlining measures which have been approved by the House of Representatives.

Mrs. Davis said the measures could strengthen county government and that she would ask the delegates to arouse interest in their own communities.

Last April 30, the House voted 112-24 for an amendment which would make it easier for counties to form a charter type of government. The amendment would preserve the veto powers of township governments in counties of under 500 population, but would enable counties of more than 500 population to have the same powers as municipalities.

The House also voted 83-37 for a bill which would revise the powers and functions of county commissioners and permit the hiring of county managers. Under it, county commissioners could make contracts with port authorities, townships and water and sewage districts.

The House defeated a proposed amendment to permit metropolitan federation of townships, counties and municipalities.

Yugoslavia, had a May snow for the first time in 58 years.

Corn Planting under Way

Work of planting Fayette County's 70,000 acres of corn is now underway.

Many farmers started their planters Monday, following the abnormally cool weather, and will proceed as rapidly as they can condition the soil.

Others will not start planting until late this week or the first of next. The ground has dried out so rapidly that clouds of dust are left by the tractors pulling disc harrows, spike harrows, drags, and corn, lanterns.

Generally the soil is being conditioned rapidly, although some of the ground that was plowed a little too wet, and has not had a freeze to help break it up, is causing some difficulty.

With two weeks of planting weather, practically all of the corn in the county should be in the ground.

Police in Toledo Hard to Convince

DETROIT (AP)—Police in Toledo apparently are hard to convince. Roy Lee Calvird needed a gun to get officers to believe his story.

Calvird, 23, said he walked into Toledo police headquarters last Friday to confess a $2,700 robbery here April 15.

The officer at the desk told him to go away, Calvird said, adding:

"He thought I was drunk. He finally believed me when I tossed a loaded pistol on the desk. I knew I was wanted and was tired of running."

Calvird pleaded guilty to the robbery before Judge W. McKay Skillman Monday. Calvird was held under $5,000 bond for sentencing later.

Stark County State Lake Idea Rapped

COLUMBUS (AP)—A township trustee appeared before the Ohio House Conservation Committee Monday night to oppose an $825,000 state lake in his home township, Paris Twp., Stark County.

Arthur Mong, the Paris Twp. trustee, headed a group of Stark County residents opposing the fishing and water-supply lake near Paris. The bill proposing construction of the lake is sponsored by Reps. John Lehman (R-Stark) and Robert Longworth (R-Carroll).

Mong offered these reasons for opposing the lake:

1. It wouldn't hold water because sand and gravel underlie the site.

2. The creek which would feed it dries up in the summer and it would take five years to fill the proposed reservoir.

3. Present state lakes, Zeppenick and Guilford, provide enough fishing for the area now.

4. The village of Minerva, if it wants to attract industry with a bountiful water supply, can dam up Little and Big Sandy rivers.

5. The State Department of Natural Resources has made no real study of the proposed Paris Twp. lake project and a big state appropriation without such a study "would be a piece of folly."

Mother, 18, Killed By Suiciding Mate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Mrs. Jean Watson, 18, mother of three, was shot and killed early today by her estranged husband Ronnie, 20, who, police said, then killed himself with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Mrs. Watson, who had been separated from her husband six to nine months, was sitting in a car in front of her home with Calvin Ferguson, 20, of Columbus, Watson walked up to the car and shot her in the head as she sat in the car's front seat. Ferguson was not injured.

Police said Watson then ran into a nearby alley and shot herself.

Ike's Veto Hinted On Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hint of a presidential veto preceded House consideration today of a bill to expand mortgage credit and set up new home-buying preferences for war veterans.

As House leaders called up the big one-package housing measure, Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) said a "bad bill" would invite a veto.

New Italian Premier Sought

ROME (AP)—President Giovanni Gronchi today began the search for a politician to patch together a new government from Italy's moderate center front.

The center coalition's collapse forced Premier Antonio Segni to resign Monday night after 22 months in office.

Seen as strong possibilities were two prominent lawyers, both members of Segni's Christian Democratic party. They are Adone Zoli, finance minister in the old government, and Guido Gonella, minister without portfolio under Segni.

Another Christian Democrat premier appeared certain. Although short of a majority in the 590-member Chamber of Deputies, the party's 262 seats are 119 more than the second-place Communists.

Segni's teetering four-party coalition of Christian Democrats, Social Democrats (anti-Communist Socialists), Republicans and Liberals fell apart Monday night when Vice Premier Giuseppe Saragat and the three other Socialist ministers quit the Cabinet.

ITALY'S WESTERN-aligned foreign policy was not an issue. The four parties had been bickering for months over domestic issues. The Republicans quit the Cabinet two months ago—saying they wanted a freer hand—and continued to vote with the government on major issues in Parliament.

The Social Democrats, headed by Saragat, had been threatening to quit for some time so they could reunite with the bigger left-wing Socialist party and campaign under one banner in the future.

It seemed unlikely, however, that Saragat would press for a general election soon. Observers say the two Socialist parties have a lot to do before they can catch up their 10-year rift and enter elections as a unified group.

Missing Cincinnati Man Reported in Talks with Reds

MACAO (AP)—A Chinese cook has reported seeing a missing Cincinnati man talking with Communist Chinese officials on a small island near here.

The missing man, Donald Jackson Blackwood, a U. S. airman, his Korean wife and their 8-month-old son, disappeared 11 days ago.

Monday, the cook, Tau Sa-Hou, said he saw the missing family on Lappa Island, one third of a mile from here, the day after they disappeared.

Tau said he went to visit his mother and "I saw a foreigner dressed in a sport shirt and trousers, standing in a room, and near him was a Chinese-looking lady with a baby in her arms." Tau said several Communist officials were also in the room.

"The next morning," Tau related, "my family and I went to see a football game and there was the same foreigner, playing football and being cheered by the crowd."

Oil Reaches Israel

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A second U. S. tanker, loaded with oil apparently from Iran, has reached the southern Israeli port of Eilat, on the Gulf of Aqaba.

Both Talle and Republican leaders left no doubt they considered as a "bad bill" the measure sent to the House by the Democratic majority of the House Banking Committee.

The House Veterans Affairs Committee also has opposed the bill's provision for a special veterans housing program under the Federal Housing Administration and the inclusion of some GI provisions which the veterans affairs group had rejected earlier.

With backing of the Eisenhower administration, Talle was ready to offer as a substitute another measure omitting all veterans preference provisions. The administration, he said, will "go along with it."

Public housing is not involving in the present bill.

REP. RAINS (D-Ala.), author of the committee bill, said it is "almost altogether a mortgage credit bill" to make home buying easier and act as a spur to the lagging home construction industry.

Both the Democratic and Republican bills go beyond administration recommendations for easing mortgage financing and for standby authority to lower down payments on homes bought with government-insured mortgages.

Chief controversy centers on provisions of the Democratic bill to:

1. Use $1 billion of National Service Life Insurance trust funds to ease GI home financing through open market purchase of veterans mortgages.

2. Create a new veterans housing program within FHA giving veterans special down-payment preferences equal to half the down payment required of non-veterans.

GI mortgage guarantees are now provided by the Veterans Administration.

3. Give the VA and FHA authority to fix "reasonable limits" on charges, fees and discounts assessed by lenders in financing GI mortgages.

Aussie 'Pirates' Board U. S. Carrier, Sound Battle Alarm

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Ten Sydney University students in pirate dress boarded the U. S. aircraft carrier Bennington before reveille today.

They climbed unchallenged to the bridge and sent 2,500 American sailors to battle stations by sounding the general alarm.

It was more than five minutes before the ship's company realized they were victims of a Commemoration Day prank.

The gaily garbed students slipped aboard the carrier from a small launch about 6 a.m. Officers on the bridge were taken by surprise, and could not prevent one youth from pulling the action-stations alarm.

One officer later said the prank was taken in the spirit in which it was intended, but "they certainly gave us one mighty scare."

Ahoy, Mates, We're Aground!

That's the advantage of police work. It never gets dull. Like Tuesday morning, when officers were called out to investigate an accident that occurred when a boat hit a car on S. North St.

No leftover from last month's flood, the boat was sailing blithely along on a trailer, attached to a car driven by James M. Haas, Mt. Sterling.

Police said that Haas was backing his auto, which was attached to his trailer, which was attached to his boat, into a parking place on S. North St. Everything was shipshape starboard and port, but there just didn't happen to be any buoys on an auto owned by Delbert Smith, 322 S. North St., parked at aft.

HAAS was piloting just fine until all of a sudden he ran aground on Smith's grill.

No one was thrown overboard and the boat was still shipshape, but Smith's car will have to into drydock for a little caulking around the fenders and grill.

Unable to rouse the Coast Guard, the accident was investigated by City Police.

Two moves along different lines to broaden the educational opportunities offered by Washington C. H. High School were made by the Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

One was the authorization given Superintendent W. A. Smith to proceed with plans to establish an Ohio University branch college here next fall. Smith and Dr. A. C. Gubitz of the Athens university's field staff are to meet here Thursday to work out more of the details.

It is probable that the courses to be offered here will be determined at this meeting.

The other move was toward the establishment of a distributive education program, under which students enrolled will attend classes in the morning and take jobs in places of business (mostly retail stores) in the afternoon.

THE distributive education program was described as a cooperative vocational education course to give students both classroom studies and on-the-job training by C. H. Gingrich and Robert Smith, who came here from Columbus to explain it to the board.

They emphasized that the school would be reimbursed by the state and federal governments for a specially-trained teacher's salary. The school would provide the classroom—and that poses a knotty problem for the school board.

After discussing the availability of a classroom in the high school with Principal John Trace, the board deferred final action. However, members of the board said they favored including the program (Please turn to page two)

Swedish Princess May Ignore Ban By Royal Family

LONDON (AP)—The London Daily Mail said today it had learned Swedish Princess Margaretha plans to defy her family and marry her British suitor of noble lineage but only $126-a-week income.

The advertising agency pays him $42 a week, the hotel twice as much.

Friends of Douglas-Home also insisted the romance is still very much alive despite the strong opposition of the Scandinavian royal family, which recoiled at the thought of having a son-in-law who plays piano for money.

Jackson City Aide Injured by Blast

JACKSON (AP)—Murley Bates Jr., 36, a municipal employee at nearby Oak Hill, was injured when an explosive charge placed in a city tractor damaged Oak Hill City Building Monday.

The tractor exploded hurling Bates 20 feet, setting his clothes afire and causing severe face and body burns. Authorities are investigating, Jackson County Sheriff John Evans said.

Announcement of the trash pick-up plan was announced by Robert Willis, co-chairman of the committee of the Junior Chamber of Commerce, which is sponsoring the campaign, after discussing it with city and county officials.

"WHY WOULD he do this? Because they contain the epitome of his life. Sen. McCarthy was a dedicated man. When he took up on himself a task, he gave his whole heart and soul to a successful completion of this work. He loved his God, and his country."

"If you loved him," Father Grill said, "remember him in your prayers. No man is perfect. Sen. McCarthy had faults, and I am sure he would be the first to admit this. Pray God to forgive him."

The funeral was held after thousands of McCarthy's friends who knew him not only as a turbulent United States senator, but as a friendly neighbor, had filed past his casket to pay their final respects.

The plane carrying his body from Washington landed at Green Bay, 35 miles north of Appleton. A crowd of 2,500 stood silently as the casket was lifted down.

Twenty-six Marines and 13 members of American Legion and Catholic War Veterans posts provided a military escort.

Upon reaching Appleton, the funeral party was met at St. Mary's Church by Father Grill, a long-time personal friend of McCarthy.

After a short service in which funeral prayers were recited, the body was taken into the flower-banked church.

Marines and members of the Knights of Columbus took up positions, maintained through the night, at the head and foot of the casket.

Mong offered these reasons for opposing the lake:

1. It wouldn't hold water because sand and gravel underlie the site.

2. The creek which would feed it dries up in the summer and it would take five years to fill the proposed reservoir.

3. Present state lakes, Zeppernick and Guilford, provide enough fishing for the area now.

4. The village of Minerva, if it wants to attract industry with a bountiful water supply, can dam up Little and Big Sandy rivers.

5. The State Department of Natural Resources has made no real study of the proposed Paris Twp. lake project and a big state appropriation without such a study "would be a piece of folly."

Mother, 18, Killed By Suiciding Mate

COLUMBUS (AP)—Mrs. Jean Watson, 18, mother of three, was shot and killed early today by her estranged husband Ronnie, 20, who, police said, then killed himself with a 16-gauge shotgun.

Mrs. Watson, who had been separated from her husband six to nine months, was sitting in a car in front of her home with Calvin Ferguson, 20, of Columbus. Watson walked up to the car and shot her in the head as she sat in the car's front seat. Ferguson was not injured.

Police said Watson then ran into a nearby alley and shot herself.

Tribute to HST Set

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Christopher (D-Mo) has obtained one hour's time in the House Wednesday to pay tribute to his most famous constituent, former President Harry S. Truman of Independence, Mo., on Truman's 73rd birthday.

Tau said he went to visit his mother and "I saw a foreigner dressed in a sport shirt and trousers, standing in a room, and near him was a Chinese-looking lady with a baby in her arms." Tau said several Communist officials were also in the room.

"The next morning," Tau related, "my family and I went to see a football game and there was the same foreigner, playing football and being cheered by the crowd."

Oil Reaches Israel

AMMAN, Jordan (AP)—A second U. S. tanker, loaded with oil apparently from Iran, has reached the southern Israeli port of Eilat, on the Gulf of Aqaba.

Ike's Veto Hinted On Housing Bill

WASHINGTON (AP)—Hint of a presidential veto preceded House consideration today of a bill to expand mortgage credit and set up new home-buying preferences for war veterans.

As House leaders called up the big one-package housing measure, Rep. Talle (R-Iowa) said a "bad bill" would invite a veto.

Both Talle and Republican leaders left no doubt they considered as a "bad bill" the measure sent to the House by the Democratic majority of the House Banking Committee.

The House Veterans Affairs Committee also has opposed the bill's provision for a special veterans housing program under the Federal Housing Administration and the inclusion of some GI provisions which the veterans affairs group had rejected earlier.

With backing of the Eisenhower administration, Talle was ready to offer as a substitute another measure omitting all veterans preference provisions. The administration, he said, will "go along with it."

Public housing is not involving in the present bill.

REP. RAINS (D-Ala.), author of the committee bill, said it is "almost altogether a mortgage credit bill" to make home buying easier and act as a spur to the lagging home construction industry.

Both the Democratic and Republican bills go beyond administration recommendations for easing mortgage financing and for standby authority to lower down payments on homes bought with government-insured mortgages.

Chief controversy centers on provisions of the Democratic bill to:

1. Use $1 billion of National Service Life Insurance trust funds to ease GI home financing through open market purchase of veterans mortgages.

2. Create a new veterans housing program within FHA giving veterans special down-payment preferences equal to half the down payment required of non-veterans.

GI mortgage guarantees are now provided by the Veterans Administration.

3. Give the VA and FHA authority to fix "reasonable limits" on charges, fees and discounts assessed by lenders in financing GI mortgages.

Aussie 'Pirates' Board U. S. Carrier, Sound Battle Alarm

SYDNEY, Australia (AP)—Ten Sydney University students in pirate dress boarded the U. S. aircraft carrier Bennington before reveille today.

They climbed unchallenged to the bridge and sent 2,500 American sailors to battle stations by sounding the general alarm.

It was more than five minutes before the ship's company realized they were victims of a Commemoration Day prank.

The gaily garbed students slipped aboard the carrier from a small launch about 6 a.m. Officers on the bridge were taken by surprise, and could not prevent one youth from pulling the action stations alarm.

One officer later said the prank was taken in the spirit in which it was intended, but "they certainly gave us one mighty scare."

Ahoy, Mates, We're Aground!

That's the advantage of police work. It never gets dull.

Like Tuesday morning, when officers were called out to investigate an accident that occurred when a boat hit a car on S. North St.

No leftover from last month's flood, the boat was sailing blithely along on a trailer, attached to a car driven by James M. Haas, Mt. Sterling.

Police said that Haas was backing his auto, which was attached to his trailer, which was attached to his boat, into a parking place on S. North St. Everything

Two moves along different lines to broaden the educational opportunities offered by Washington C. H. High School were made by the Board of Education at its regular meeting Monday night.

One was the authorization given Superintendent W. A. Smith to proceed with plans to establish an Ohio University branch college here next fall. Smith and Dr. A. C. Gubitz of the Athens university's field staff are to meet here Thursday to work out more of the details.

It is probable that the courses to be offered here will be determined at this meeting.

The other move was toward the establishment of a distributive education program, under which students enrolled will attend classes in the morning and take jobs in places of business (mostly retail stores) in the afternoon.

THE distributive education program was described as a cooperative vocational education course to give students both classroom studies and on-the-job training by C. H. Gingrich and Robert Smith, who came here from Columbus to explain it to the board.

They emphasized that the school would be reimbursed by the state and federal governments for a specially-trained teacher's salary. The school would provide the classroom—and that poses a knotty problem for the school board.

After discussing the availability of a classroom in the high school with Principal John Trace, the board deferred final action. However, members of the board said they favored including the program

Swedish Princess May Ignore Ban By Royal Family

LONDON (AP)—The London Daily Mail said today it had learned Swedish Princess Margaret plans to defy her family and marry her British suitor of noble lineage but only $126-a-week income.

The Mail said the beautiful, 22-year-old granddaughter of King Gustaf VI and Robin Douglas-Home have agreed, however, to wait two years. A 25-year-old nephew of the Earl of Home, who writes advertising copy by day and plays the piano for a hotel cocktail bar at night.

The advertising agency pays him $42 a week, the hotel twice as much.

Friends of Douglas-Home also insisted the romance is still very much alive despite the strong opposition of the Scandinavian royal family, which recoiled at the thought of having a son-in-law who plays piano for money.

Lavagetto Named Pilot

DETROIT (AP)—Cookie Lavagetto was named this afternoon to replace Charlie Drensen as manager of the Washington Senators. Drensen has been offered the job as "coordinator of player personnel."

HAAS was piloting just fine until all of a sudden he ran aground on Smith's grill.

No one was thrown overboard and the boat was still shipshape, but Smith's car will have to into drydock for a little caulking around the fenders and grill.

Unable to rouse the Coast Guard, the accident was investigated by City Police.

JP Replacement Bill Given Nod

City Courts May Get Added Jurisdiction

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio House Judiciary Committee today voted 14-5 to recommend passage of a bill to replace justices of the peace with county judges.

The judges, to be elected in 1958 and take the following Jan. 1, would have jurisdiction outside the areas served by municipal courts.

The Committee also recommended passage of a bill to create four new municipal courts and extend the jurisdiction of 12 others. The vote was 18-0.

New courts would be created in Fairborn, Green County; Hillsboro with jurisdiction in all of Highland County except Madison Twp. (Greenfield); Medina and Upper Sandusky.

Summit County would be divided between the Akron, Barberton and Cuyahoga Falls courts.

After Oct. 1, 1958, Dayton Municipal Court would have jurisdiction throughout Montgomery County except in Miamisburg and Oakwood.

BUTLER COUNTY would be divided between Hamilton and Middletown courts. Mansfield and Springfield courts would have jurisdiction throughout their counties. Youngstown court would have jurisdiction throughout Mahoning County except in Smith Twp., which was added to the Alliance court.

Circleville Municipal Court would have jurisdiction in Pickaway and Satecreek townships, in addition to Circleville Twp.

Five townships would be added to the jurisdiction of Ironton Municipal Court.

The measure provides that judges of the Toledo Municipal Court shall be nominated only by petition signed by at least 1,000 Toledo voters.

Loss Is $100 In Auto Blaze

Defective battery wiring was given as the cause of a fire that did about $100 worth of damage to an auto owned by Mrs. Doris Custer, 520 Albin Ave., at 4:15 p. m. Monday.

Mrs. Custer said she had stopped at the traffic light at Court and North Sts. when she saw smoke at the front of her auto. She first thought it was caused by a passing truck, then realized that it was from her own car.

Firemen were called to the scene and extinguished the blaze. Mrs. Custer estimated damage, which was covered by insurance, at about $100.

Dayton Explosion 'Deliberately Set'

DAYTON (AP)—An explosion and fire that caused an estimated $35,000 to $40,000 in damages at the United Fireworks Co., Monday night, was "deliberately caused by d. namite," the president of the company says.

Walter Bleacher said an inspection showed 8 to 10 sticks of dynamite had been placed on the outside of a building that exploded.

The two explosions sent a wild, brilliant display of fireworks soaring 500 feet into the sky and leveled two storage sheds.

Bleacher did not name anyone he thought responsible for placing the dynamite.

Legion-Backed Scout Troop Highly Praised

"One of the cleanest, best operated units I've ever seen," was the way District Scout Leader Kenneth Upp of Columbus described Boy Scout Troop No. 112, sponsored by the American Legion here, as he inspected it at the Boy Scout's two weekend Camporee at Rocky Fork Lake.

Boys from Troop No. 112 discussed the Camporee, held Saturday and Sunday, at a Monday night meeting of the American Legion's troop committee.

The unit got a 100 per cent rating on all three inspections during the two-day advancement session—an almost unparalleled accomplishment, Scout leaders say.

In addition to their inspection accomplishment, the unit did just as well in advancement, it was reported. Every one of the 10 boys from Troop No. 112 at the Camporee advanced at least one grade, and some were able to move up even more.

A total of nearly 400 boys, representing troops from Portsmouth to Columbus, participated in the advancement meeting. Troop No. 112 was Fayette County's only representative.

No injuries were reported during the two-day session, despite the wide range of vigorous activities in which the boys took part. Every boy did kitchen police duty at least once, and every boy took part in a two-hour Sunday afternoon hike.

Leaders from Fayette County at the session were Richard Curl, Troop No. 112 Scoutmaster; Bob Woods, assistant scoutmaster who served as camp cook, and James Merritt, Explorer adviser.

Dems Accused Of Politicking In Raps at Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said today Democrats are seeking "political benefits" in a new series of attacks on President Eisenhower's foreign policies.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, acting Democratic leader, replied he doesn't want to see these policies "become a political football." But he said "constructive criticism" of some of them is needed.

Smith, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said attacks such as those voiced by House Democrats Monday and by the Democratic National Advisory Council over the weekend are "not helpful to the country."

"The Democrats are raising these questions about our policies for political purposes," he said. Rep. Boyle (D-Ill.) told the House Monday administration policies were "pro-Arab" in the Middle East crisis—a charge repeated by Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic floor leader.

McCormack supported the Democratic council's contention that the Eisenhower administration has lost the trust of U. S. allies and has substituted "appeasement, posturing and advertising slogans" for real leadership of the free world.

Indications were that one can be found and that the program will be started next fall.

THE COURSE, which would cover a wide variety of phases of distributive education, is open to seniors only. Enrollment in it would be based on interviews with the students by trained counselors.

Gingrich, who discussed the program for the high school, and Smith, who discussed a similar program with night classes for adults, explained that the distributive education courses are sponsored by the Distributive Education Services, Division of Vocational Education, of the Ohio Department of Education.

Students enrolled in the course would be employed at the pay scale of the business in which they take their training. They would be on the job from 15 to 25 hours a week and under the supervision of representatives of the state department.

Gingrich and Smith assured the board there was no conflict between the distributive education program and branch college, pointing out that the distributive education course is primarily for students not expecting to go to college.

DISTRIBUTIVE education is basically a course in salesmanship of either goods or services. Two of the four classroom studies in the morning would be of the regular school curriculum and two related to the on-the-job training. Gingrich likened the program to those for vocational agriculture, home economics and vocational industrial training.

A specially trained teacher would have to be employed. Gingrich told the board that while qualified teachers are scarce, some good ones are available.

In disposing of routine business, the board approved a list of 97 seniors for graduation, subject to completion of required work by May 15; approved Dr. Samuel Marble, president of Wilmington College, for the commencement speaker; accepted the resignation of Mrs. Laurel Montgomery as a teacher in the Sunnyside School; and authorized a call for bids for boilers to replace the old ones in the high school.

The boilers, it has been estimated, will cost around $35,000. To meet the cost, the board has authorized the issuance of anticipatory notes against the $645,000 bond issue voted last November.

The board approved the employment of a full-time art teacher to replace Mrs. Jerry Grundies, whose resignation as a part-time art teacher in the elementary schools was accepted with regret.

A delegation of four men from the Pony Football League asked the board's permission to use Gardner Park for Saturday night games after the board turned thumbs down on the plan to play there on Sunday. Because of the press of other business on the agenda, a decision was deferred until the next meeting, which will be held May 22 instead of May 20, the regular meeting date.

Payment of bills, including the salaries and wages, amounting to $38,992 was authorized.

Central Ohio Cities Awaiting Columbus Time Change Ballot

COLUMBUS (AP)—Communities throughout Central Ohio had an eye on today's election in Columbus where voters are deciding whether the state capital goes on Daylight Saving Time.

Columbus is one of 94 municipalities in the state holding primary elections today.

If Columbus voters favor fast time, DST will go into effect at 2 a. m. Sunday. Next year and thereafter, it would be effective from the last Sunday in April through the last Sunday in September.

Circleville, Marion, Lancaster, Delaware, Newark, Zanesville and Coshocton are among the municipalities planning to go on DST if Columbus adopts it.

Today, the Senate State Government Committee recommended a change in the State Constitution to put all of Ohio on Eastern Standard Time. Approval by the Legislature would place the question on ballots for decision by voters.

Final approval would knock out Daylight Saving Time in cities now permitted to set their own time under home rule provisions.

In addition to the primaries, a number of political issues are at stake elsewhere in the state. Municipalities with fewer than 2,000 population will have no primaries, nor will larger cities where there are no contests for nominations in both parties.

Besides the primaries, many political subdivisions will have bond issues, tax levies and other special issues up for decision on separate ballots.

Twelve will have city-wide Republican primaries only, because Democratic candidates for municipal offices lack opposition, except for councilmen in one or more wards. Two will have city-wide Democratic primaries only for the same reason.

A law enacted by the 1955 Legislature allows municipalities to forego city-wide primaries of the party whose candidates have opposition only in races for ward councilmen.

Less than half of Ohio's 2215 cities and incorporated villages of 2,000 or more population will hold primaries this year.

The 94 municipalities in 45 of the 88 counties with elections scheduled compares with 97 in 52 counties two years ago.

A total of 48 municipalities will hold both Republican and Democratic primaries, compared with 45 in 1955. Columbus, Lima, Ashland and Gallipolis will have non-partisan elections under their charter form of government.

Winners in the primaries will face opposing party nominees in the Nov. 5 elections.

Girl's 'Caretaker' Is Not Convincing
DAYTON (AP)—Donald M. Schafer, 18, faced a speeding charge in Dayton Municipal Court Monday, accused of driving 65 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone.

Asked why the excessive speed by Judge Cecil E. Edwards, Schafer replied:

"Because my girl friend's mother told me to look after her."

"You couldn't be looking after her going 65 miles an hour with her in the car," said the judge.

"Oh, she wasn't in my car," said Schafer. "She was in a car in front of me with another man."

Judge Edwards fined him $10 and costs and revoked his driving license for 30 days.

JP Replacement Bill Given Nod

City Courts May Get Added Jurisdiction

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio House Judiciary Committee today voted 14-5 to recommend passage of a bill to replace justices of the peace with county judges.

The judges, to be elected in 1958 and take the following Jan. 1, would have jurisdiction outside the areas served by municipal courts.

The Committee also recommended passage of a bill to create four new municipal courts and extend the jurisdiction of 12 others. The vote was 18-0.

New courts would be created in Fairborn, Green County; Hillsboro with jurisdiction in all of Highland County except Madison Twp. (Greenfield); Medina and Upper Sandusky.

Summit County would be divided between the Akron, Barberton and Cuyahoga Falls courts.

After Oct. 1, 1958, Dayton Municipal Court would have jurisdiction throughout Montgomery County except in Miamisburg and Oakwood.

BUTLER COUNTY would be divided between Hamilton and Middletown courts. Mansfield and Springfield courts would have jurisdiction throughout their counties. Youngstown court would have jurisdiction throughout Mahoning County except in Smith Twp., which was added to the Alliance court.

Circleville Municipal Court would have jurisdiction in Pickaway and Satterree townships, in addition to Circleville Twp. Five townships would be added to the jurisdiction of Ironton Municipal Court.

The measure provides that judges of the Toledo Municipal Court shall be nominated only by petition signed by at least 1,000 Toledo voters.

Loss Is $100 In Auto Blaze

Defective battery wiring was given as the cause of a fire that did about $100 worth of damage to an auto owned by Mrs. Doris Custer, 520 Albin Ave., at 4:15 p. m. Monday.

Mrs. Custer said she had stopped at the traffic light at Court and North Sts. when she saw smoke at the front of her auto. She first thought it was caused by a passing truck, then realized that it was from her own car.

Firemen were called to the scene and extinguished the blaze. Mrs. Custer estimated damage, which was covered by insurance, at about $100.

Dayton Explosion 'Deliberately Set'

DAYTON (AP)—An explosion and fire that caused an estimated $35,000 to $40,000 in damages at the United Fireworks Co., Monday night, was "deliberately caused by d.namite," the president of the company says.

Walter Bleacher said an inspection showed 8 to 10 sticks of dynamite had been placed on the outside of a building that exploded.

The two explosions sent a wild, brilliant display of fireworks soaring 500 feet into the sky and leveled two storage sheds.

Bleacher did not name anyone he thought responsible for placing the dynamite.

Legion-Backed Scout Troop Highly Praised

"One of the cleanest, best operated units I've ever seen," was the way District Scout Leader Kenneth Upp of Columbus described Boy Scout Troop No. 112, sponsored by the American Legion here, as he inspected it at the Boy Scout's two-day weekend Camporee at Rocky Fork Lake.

Boys from Troop No. 112 discussed the Camporee, held Saturday and Sunday, at a Monday night meeting of the American Legion's troop committee.

The unit got a 100 per cent rating on all three inspections during the two-day advancement session—an almost unparalleled accomplishment, Scout leaders say.

In addition to their inspection accomplishment, the unit did just as well in advancement, it was reported. Every one of the 10 boys from Troop No. 112 at the Camporee advanced at least one grade, and some were able to move up even more.

A total of nearly 400 boys, representing troops from Portsmouth to Columbus, participated in the advancement meeting. Troop No. 112 was Fayette County's only representative.

No injuries were reported during the two-day session, despite the wide range of vigorous activities in which the boys took part. Every boy did kitchen police duty at least once, and every boy took part in a two-hour Sunday afternoon hike. Leaders from Fayette County at the session were Richard Curl, Troop No. 112 Scoutmaster; Bob Woods, assistant scoutmaster who served as camp cook, and James Merritt, Explorer adviser.

Dems Accused Of Politicking In Raps at Ike

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. H. Alexander Smith (R-N.J.) said today Democrats are seeking "political benefits" in a new series of attacks on President Eisenhower's foreign policies.

Sen. Mansfield of Montana, acting Democratic leader, replied he doesn't want to see these policies "become a political football." But he said "constructive criticism" of some of them is needed.

Smith, a member of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, said attacks such as those voiced by House Democrats Monday and by the Democratic National Advisory Council over the weekend are "not helpful to the country."

"The Democrats are raising these questions about our policies for political purposes," he said.

Rep. Boyle (D-Ill.) told the House Monday administration policies were "pro-Arab" in the Middle East crisis—a charge repeated by Rep. McCormack of Massachusetts, Democratic floor leader.

McCormack supported the Democratic council's contention that the Eisenhower administration has lost the trust of U. S. allies and has substituted "appeasement, posturing and advertising slogans" for real leadership of the free world.

U. S. Marine Causes Scene In Indonesia

JAKARTA, Indonesia (AP)—A U. S. Marine created a ruckus Monday by tearing down flags the Indonesians had put up in honor of the state visit of Soviet President Klementi Voroshilov.

The U. S. Embassy announced today it had apologized to the Foreign Ministry and had ordered the Marine, whose name is being withheld by officials of all sides, to leave the country. The Marine was a member of the embassy's armed guard.

Western diplomatic sources said they feared the Communist press would blow the incident into a major insult against Voroshilov. They said the Marine actually was guilty only of a "drunken prank" which had no political implications.

Five local Communist papers printed stories about it today. They said the Marine gave his name as "Weise, age 30."

The papers said Indonesian youths caught the Marine tearing down the flags about 2:30 a. m. Monday and took him to police after a minor struggle.

Voroshilov was given a mixed reception among Indonesians themselves at the start of his 12-day visit here.

There was a 21-gun salute, a crowd of 100,000 and a correct official welcome at the airport. But later a near riot developed outside the presidential palace where demonstrators threatened to mob the Russian leader.

City School Board

in the school curriculum in a classroom can be found.

Indications were that one can be found and that the program will be started next fall.

THE COURSE, which would cover a wide variety of phases of distributive education, is open to seniors only. Enrollment in it would be based on interviews with the students by trained counselors.

Gingrich, who discussed the program for the high school, and Smith, who discussed a similar program with night classes for adults, explained that the distributive education courses are sponsored by the Distributive Education Services, Division of Vocational Education, of the Ohio Department of Education.

Students enrolled in the course would be employed at the pay scale of the business in which they take their training. They would be on the job from 15 to 25 hours a week and under the supervision of representatives of the state department.

Gingrich and Smith assured the board there was no conflict between the distributive education program and branch college, pointing out that the distributive education course is primarily for students not expecting to go to college.

DISTRICTIVE education is basically a course in salesmanship of either goods or services. Two of the four classroom studies in the morning would be of the regular school curriculum and two related to the on-the-job training. Gingrich likened the program to those for vocational agriculture, home economics and vocational industrial training.

A specially trained teacher would have to be employed. Gingrich told the board that while qualified teachers are scarce, some good ones are available.

In disposing of routine business, the board approved a list of 97 seniors for graduation, subject to completion of required work by May 15; approved Dr. Samuel Marble, president of Wilmington College, for the commencement speaker; accepted the resignation of Mrs. Laurel Montgomery as a teacher in the Sunnyside School; and authorized a call for bids for boilers to replace the old ones in the high school.

The boilers, it has been estimated, will cost around $35,000. To meet the cost, the board has authorized the issuance of anticipatory notes against the $645,000 bond issue voted last November.

The board approved the employment of a full-time art teacher to replace Mrs. Jerry Grundiges, whose resignation as a part-time art teacher in the elementary schools was accepted with regret.

A delegation of four men from the Pony Football League asked the board's permission to use Gardner Park for Saturday night games after the board turned thumbs down on the plan to play there on Sunday. Because of the press of other business on the agenda, a decision was deferred until the next meeting, which will be held May 22 instead of May 20, the regular meeting date.

Payment of bills, including the salaries and wages, amounting to $38,992 was authorized.

Central Ohio Cities Awaiting Columbus Time Change Ballot

COLUMBUS (AP)—Communities throughout Central Ohio had an eye on today's election in Columbus where voters are deciding whether the state capital goes on Daylight Saving Time.

Columbus is one of 94 municipalities in the state holding primary elections today.

If Columbus voters favor fast time, DST will go into effect at 2 a. m. Sunday. Next year and thereafter, it would be effective from the last Sunday in April through the last Sunday in September.

Circleville, Marion, Lancaster, Delaware, Newark, Zanesville and Coshocton are among the municipalities planning to go on DST if Columbus adopts it.

Today, the Senate State Government Committee recommended a change in the State Constitution to put all of Ohio on Eastern Standard Time. Approval by the Legislature would place the question on ballots for decision by voters.

Final approval would knock out Daylight Saving Time in cities now permitted to set their own time under home rule provisions.

In addition to the primaries, a number of political issues are at stake elsewhere in the state. Municipalities with fewer than 2,000 population will have no primaries, nor will larger cities where there are no contests for nominations in both parties.

Besides the primaries, many political subdivisions will have bond issues, tax levies and other special issues up for decision on separate ballots.

Twelve will have city-wide Republican primaries only, because Democratic candidates for municipal offices lack opposition, except for councilmen in one or more wards. Two will have city-wide Democratic primaries only for the same reason.

A law enacted by the 1955 Legislature allows municipalities to forego city-wide primaries of the party whose candidates have opposition only in races for ward councilmen.

Less than half of Ohio's 2215 cities and incorporated villages of 2,000 or more population will hold primaries this year.

The 94 municipalities in 45 of the 88 counties with elections scheduled compares with 97 in 52 counties two years ago.

A total of 48 municipalities will hold both Republican and Democratic primaries, compared with 45 in 1955. Columbus, Lima, Ashland and Gallipolis will have non-partisan elections under their charter form of government.

Winners in the primaries will face opposing party nominees in the Nov. 5 elections.

Girl's 'Caretaker' Is Not Convincing

DAYTON (AP)—Donald M. Schafer, 18, faced a speeding charge in Dayton Municipal Court Monday, accused of driving 65 miles an hour in a 35-mile zone.

Asked why the excessive speed by Judge Cecil E. Edwards, Schafer replied:

"Because my girl friend's mother told me to look after her." "You couldn't be looking after her going 65 miles an hour with her in the car," said the judge. "Oh, she wasn't in my car," said Schafer. "She was in a car in front of me with another man."

Judge Edwards fined him $10 and costs and revoked his driving license for 30 days.

U. S. Industry Set for Its Talent Search

Commencement Time To Bring Vast Wooring Of Graduating Brains

By SAM DAWSON

NEW YORK (AP)—Latest entry in the brains derby to be run in the coming commencement weeks is the mechanical brains industry's search for tomorrow's specialists.

Industrial scouts seek to lure the graduate into numerous fields from engineering to salesmanship. Emphasis first was put on the technical skills. Later numerous organizations began recruiting for strictly white collar jobs.

Fast growing use of electronic computers and punched card equipment today is posing a new problem: Where to find the specialist to run the machines of tomorrow?

The number in this new field at the supervisory level alone has grown from 10,000 in 1947 to 35,000 today. The National Machine Accountants Assn. says that at the present growth rate more than 60,000 will be needed by 1960.

But since the annual rate of new installations of mechanical brains is also growing, industry may need far more than 60,000 technicians to feed data in and out of the computers.

Because of the mushrooming demand for trained personnel, the association is sponsoring courses in machine accounting, programming, integrated data processing and related subjects in scores of cities.

Machine accounting is studied in such educational institutions as New York University, the University of Chicago, University of Minnesota and Rochester Business Institute. In St. Paul and San Diego there are vocational school courses in handling the giant brains.

D. L. Gerighty, president of the association, and machine accounting manager for Aerquip Corp., Jackson, Mich., says that "to be happy in the field, one must have inquisitiveness and ability to visualize."

In their recruiting and training for the growing field, the machine accountants are both competing with and cooperating with drives by others in the accounting field to gain recruits.

The American Institute of Accountants uses charts, booklets and films to interest both teachers and students in high schools and colleges in public accounting as a career.

Private accounting has similar campaigns. The controllers Institute of America spreads the doctrine to students, counselors, faculty heads in collegiate schools of business. The institute says the number of women accountants and auditors tripled between 1940 and 1950.

Even the newspaper business is getting in the act. The Minnesota Editorial Assn. has a kit to aid publishers called upon to make commencement addresses to high school seniors. It includes a speech which enables a publisher to spend 10 minutes on the pleasures and rewards of newspaper work.

One-Time Communist Gets Court Protection

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has ruled 8-0 that a lawyer's Communist Party membership more than 15 years ago does not justify an inference of present bad moral character.

Justice Black, speaking for the court, said New Mexico was wrong in refusing Rudolph Schwere, a one-time Communist, permission to take the bar exam.

Attorneys for the New Mexico Board of Bar Examiners told the Supreme Court that Schwere's record included Communist party membership, use of aliases, and arrests—without convictions.

Cold Storage Room Under Television Eye

TOLEDO (AP)—If employees in the cold storage room of the Page Dairy Co. feel that someone is watching them, it's no wonder. Page has installed three closed-circuit television cameras in the room as a supervisory method.

Arnold Page, vice president of the dairy company, said the installation is intended for supervision of shipping and receiving operations. Shipping can be handled by push-buttons from the control room, with supervisors counting cases on the television screens.

The sun moved west, over Shanghai, where the Communist government announced that, in the great brotherhood of Marx, the city hadn't had a single robbery in many years. Over Hong Kong where Lai Kwong-chung and his wife rejoiced in the birth of their 11th child. Nine of the others had died at birth or of child diseases. Over the barren plains of Siberia; over the hot jungles of Malaya; over the state of Kerala, where the first Communist government in India's history was forming a cabinet; over the India-Pakistan border, where two Pakistanis were shot dead by Indian police in a frontier clash.

Like 90 per cent of India's people, Mangi Ram, a wiry, brown little man of 38, lives in a small village. His is Mitrone, a squalid collection of mud, brick and thatched houses 19 miles south-east of New Delhi.

On this day, as on all other days of the year, Mangi Ram's family ate the same three meals: boiled vegetables scooped up from banana leaves in unleavened wheat pancakes called chapatties.

On this day, as on most other days, Mangi Ram, a farmer of two acres which brings him about 500 rupees ($105 a year) and proud owner of two water buffaloes, three cows and five ploughing bullocks which he rents out for additional income, wore a long tan shirt whose tails hung down over his dhoti, a baggy garment wrapped around the loins.

And on this day, Mangi Ram was philosophizing while spitting out shots of red betel juice:

"Family planning (birth control) is interference with Divine dispensation and a confession by government that it cannot care for the growing number of people. We have no right to interfere with God's sweet will."

At 5 p.m., Mangi Ram became the father of twin girls, his 11th and 12th children, 10 of them living.

The girls were born in their one-room house with the aid of a midwife supplied free by the Rockefeller Foundation. They were named Radha and Rukmini, after the twin wives of the Hindu God Krishna, and their life expectancy is 31.6 years.

Molly Ann Brown, born this day in a Seattle hospital, has a life expectancy of 72.

By day, Mangi Ram's children help their parents farm. At night, they go to free schools. He considers their education an example of how life in India is improving.

Mangi Ram means to have more children.

"If a man has a dozen children," he said, "between explosions of betel juice, 'at least one will grow up to be a giant. Look at the skies. In the midst of a million stars are born a sun and moon.'"

The sun moved west, over the Indian Ocean, over the sands of Arabia and the oil fields of King Saud, where the wild mountains of Iran, where police surrounded the remnants of a bandit gang which killed three Americans the week before. Over Moscow, over the troubled Near East, over the brooding discontent of Africa.

The sky was bright and clear, the temperature rose to 50, and snow was melting in the streets of Moscow.

Former Foreign Minister, Dimitri Shepilov had warned a meeting of Soviet composers against imitating the "primitive caveman music" of American jazz. No disasters or major accidents were reported in the Soviet press but then they seldom are, unless they occur abroad.

The night before, Ivan Ivanovich Lisov, a thick-set, soft-spoken man of 40, dined at home with his wife, daughter and mother-in-law. First there was a glass of vodka and salted herring and then dinner—frankfurters, mashed potatoes, bread, butter, tea.

The Lisov apartment is two rooms, crowded with heavy furniture, in a dingy three-story building. The Lisovs share a communal kitchen and toilet and bathe in a public bathhouse.

Ivan is a supply clerk. His wife, Zinaida, is a lab assistant. Both work at Moscow State Hospital No. 30 and each earns 600 rubles a month which, at the official rate of exchange is equal to $150 and, at a more realistic rate, about $60.

Zinaida's labor pains began a while she was watching television at home. Her husband took her by cab to a state maternity home, where the state pays all the bills. The baby, a 7-pound, 4-ounce girl, was born at 2:05 a.m., one of 14,000 born in Russia this day. She was named Tatiana and her life expectancy is 64.

"If nothing like a war interferes (Ivan had seven years in the army, mostly in combat), her life should be even better than mine. The standard of living is going up all the time."

"If one is to compare my present life with that of my father, I must say it is unquestionably better. My father was a carpenter, worked all the time, had six children. Until the revolution, he did not live too well."

In Israel's state of continual tension, where no home is more than 25 miles from a hostile border, relaxation is relative. On April 4, Foreign Minister Golda Meir warned that Israeli forces would return to Gaza if necessary. Along the Syrian and Jordanian frontiers, there were shooting incidents again.

And yet, Israelis appeared relatively relaxed. In Jerusalem, matzoh factories were buzzing, housewives were washing windows and curtains and the kids were enjoying their last day of school before a three-week holiday. People were sprucing up for the Passover season.

In Hadassah hospital an eighth child, named Ilana, was born to Shushana Tamar, 38. She, her husband, Ishak, 41, and their children

Embassy Row Wives Reveal Problems in World Travel

WASHINGTON (AP)—In Thailand it's not who "wears the pants" in the husband-wife relationship, but who is the "front legs of the elephant."

In England the average woman does not have the club habit. Because the population is so packed together on the island, everyone goes to "great pains to preserve a rugged individualism."

Dutch women prefer home life over all outside activities. When they do venture forth from the hearthside, their interests are more social than political.

In Sweden, 23 per cent of the women are employed. There is a woman ambassador. In the last 10 years there have been three women Cabinet members. Of the 300 members of the Swedish Parliament, 39 are women.

These and other revealing facts were gleaned in a "trip around the world in 45 minutes" during which a group of congressional wives were taken into "the hearts and homes of women who face much the same problems as they do."

The revealing journey came in brief talks given by three Embassy Row wives, and one woman diplomat.

Mrs. John Coulson, wife of the Minister of Great Britain, said Americans and Englishmen don't speak the same language — at least not exactly.

"For instance, an Englishman if approached by an American who tells him 'I've got a flat,' thinks the American's real estate problem has been solved." To the British, Mrs. Coulson explained, an apartment is a "flat."

U. S. Industry Set for Its Talent Search

Commencement Time To Bring Vast Wooting Of Graduating Brains

By SAM DAWSON
NEW YORK (AP)—Latest entry in the brains derby to be run in the coming commencement weeks is the mechanical brains industry's search for tomorrow's specialists.

Industrial scouts seek to lure the graduate into numerous fields from engineering to salesmanship. Emphasis first was put on the technical skills. Later numerous organizations began recruiting for strictly white collar jobs.

Fast growing use of electronic computers and punched card equipment today is posing a new problem: Where to find the specialist to run the machines of tomorrow?

The number in this new field at the supervisory level alone has grown from 10,000 in 1947 to 35,000 today. The National Machine Accountants Assn. says that at the present growth rate more than 60,000 will be needed by 1960.

But since the annual rate of new installations of mechanical brains is also growing, industry may need far more than 60,000 technicians to feed data in and out of the computers.

Because of the mushrooming demand for trained personnel, the association is sponsoring courses in machine accounting, programming, integrated data processing and related subjects in scores of cities.

Machine accounting is studied in such educational institutions as New York University, the University of Chicago, University of Minnesota and Rochester Business Institute. In St. Paul and San Diego there are vocational school courses in handling the giant brains.

D. L. Gerighty, president of the association, and machine accounting manager for Aeroquip Corp., Jackson, Mich., says that "to be happy in the field, one must have inquisitiveness and ability to visualize."

In their recruiting and training for the growing field, the machine accountants are both competing with and cooperating with drives by others in the accounting field to gain recruits.

The American Institute of Accountants uses charts, booklets and films to interest both teachers and students in high schools and colleges in public accounting as a career.

Private accounting has similar campaigns. The controllers institute of America spreads the doctrine to students, counselors, faculty heads in collegiate schools of business. The institute says the number of women accountants and auditors tripled between 1940 and 1950.

Even the newspaper business is getting in the act. The Minnesota Editorial Assn. has a kit to aid publishers called upon to make commencement addresses to high school seniors. It includes a speech which enables a publisher to spend 10 minutes on the pleasures and rewards of newspaper work.

One-Time Communist Gets Court Protection

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Supreme Court has ruled 8-0 that a lawyer's Communist Party membership more than 15 years ago does not justify an inference of present bad moral character.

Justice Black, speaking for the court, said New Mexico was wrong in refusing Rudolph Schwere, a one-time Communist, permission to take the bar exam.

Attorneys for the New Mexico Board of Bar Examiners told the Supreme Court that Schwere's record included Communist party membership, use of aliases, and arrests—without convictions.

Cold Storage Room Under Television Eye

TOLEDO (AP)—If employees in the cold storage room of the Page Dairy Co. feel that someone is watching them, it's no wonder.

Page has installed three closed-circuit television cameras in the room as a supervisory method.

Arnold Page, vice president of the dairy company, said the installation is intended for supervision of shipping and receiving operations. Shipping can be handled by push-buttons from the control room, with supervisors counting cases on the television screens.

What Will Develop Out of Sixth Fleet Move?

The sailing of the U. S. Sixth Fleet, into the waters in the neighborhood of Port Said, has many implications.

Such a mission recalls the time when the sending of such a fleet of U. S. naval ships appeared to be enough to settle much, if not all, international fits of temper. Our government apparently hopes that this act at this time will have such an effect.

News dispatches seem to indicate that our government particularly hopes, that this show of force will at least aid in maintaining the present status quo in the Middle East, where a youthful Jordan monarch struggles, with some skill, to keep his country and his throne intact, and not permit Communism to gain control.

The stakes in the Mideast are high under present conditions and what transpires is being watched internationally, with more than ordinary interest.

The question arises whether Egypt and

President Nasser, can be held in check with his Hitler-like aspirations. He seems to be a diplomatic genius in the Egyptian-Syrian axis which appears determined to force Jordan to remain a part of an all-Arab, anti-Western bloc in the Mideast. His influence is not to be taken lightly.

There seemingly is enough of the pro-Soviet taint in both Egypt and Syria for the United States to look at the threat to Jordan as a real menace of world Communism; one that has real dangers.

Under the Eisenhower Doctrine, this country is pledged to defend any Mideastern country against Communist foes. If we are forced to live up to our pledges, then we may get into war.

So the mighty Sixth Fleet, sailed as quickly as it could without all of its men who were on leave in Europe. It probably will wave the Big Stick and maybe, our country hopes, tranquilize things.

75 Years Ago: Hot Pigs Knuckles

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Just 75 years ago this month August Luchow, a waiter from Bavaria, borrowed $1,500 and opened a restaurant that soon became and remained a world famous celebrity haunt.

A rollcall of its clientele is an index of Manhattan's fabulous past studied by such names as Victor Herbert, Caruso, O. Henry, Al Smith, Ziegfeld, O. O. McIntyre and, of course, Mike Todd.

The names change, but the pig knuckles on the menu still come steaming hot and elephant-sized.

What was gay Gotham like back in May 1882 when August served up his first plate of sauerbraten with a seidel of foaming wurzberger beer?

Here is one Luchow patron's idea of what a gossip column of that vanished heyday of the full stomach might say—if the gossip column had been invented then:

Handsome Lord Randolph Churchill will be guest of honor at a party that Mrs. Astor and Ward McAllister are throwing next week. He left his beautiful wife, the former Jenny Jerome, and their young son, Winston, at Marlborough Castle.

New York-Cosmopolitan City

By George Sokolsky

When a city has a budget of nearly two billion dollars, it spends more money than many a country and the man who spends so much is an official of considerable importance.

It is not so very long ago that the government of the United States managed to get along on a billion a year, although it has now moved into the stratosphere beyond the comprehension of most taxpayers.

The population of New York City is larger than some European countries (such as Norway, Denmark or Switzerland) and to that must be added at least a million visitors a day who come from all over the world to see whatever wonders the town can provide. Policing New York is almost an impossible task because there is so much of it, about 320 square miles with 5,850 miles of streets.

The mayor of New York, an elected official, is its chief executive officer who presides over 203,000 city employees. Despite the enormity of the task, New Yorkers have rarely bothered in recent times to elect outstanding citizens as mayor although they have chosen some very colorful personalities such as Jimmy Walker, Fiorello La Guardia and Bill O'Dwyer. Most of the mayors have been Democrats.

The present mayor of New York, Robert F. Wagner, son of the United States Senator of the same name, is young, charming and effective. He is married and has two sons. The mayor's salary is $40,000 a year and among his perquisites is a home in Gracie Mansion, a beautiful colonial edifice on the East River.

The success or failure of a New York City mayor depends upon the commissioners he appoints for it is in the various commissions that inefficiency and corruption make themselves evident. Most of the commissioners are paid officials, although there are some, such as the president of the Board of Education, who serve without compensation.

The mayor is elected for a four-year term and Mayor Wagner is up for re-election this year. A Democrat, he will encounter no opposition in his own party. Carmine Desapio, the Democratic leader, is proclaiming that Wagner will win by a million votes. How correct this estimate is will be seen on Election Day but the utter bankruptcy of the Republican Party in this city is to be noted by the fact that no distinguished name has been suggested to run in opposition to Mayor Wagner.

In this city, the two party system has broken down, the Republicans here no longer affecting any large element among the voters. Unless some outrageous scandal occurs between now and election day in November, the Republicans are likely to nominate a nonentity who will find that being a candidate without hope of election is profitable because of the advertising value.

Popularity in New York is a psychological quality difficult to attain because of the concentration in this city of men and women whose special addiction is popularity. Actors, actresses, movie stars, national and other officials gather in New York to attract attention to themselves in the hope that they will be given space (with pictures) in the five morning newspapers and three afternoon newspapers of general circulation to say nothing of TV and radio coverage. There are probably two dozen banquets at each noonday and evening meal with several speakers at each, all hoping for a line of type.

Against all this competition, the local gentry have to battle for notice and distinction. Also this is a city of enormous scandals, because it is the center of the really large and important rackets and swindles.

A man in public life always walks a tight rope because even if he, personally, is as honest as a saint, he never can be sure that one of his numerous subordinates does not soil his fingers in the enormous pot of grease that is everlastingly available.

There has been little of this during the Wagner administration. The current scandal involving "Socks" Lanza, the fish market protection salesman, has thus far not involved any city officials.

Scandals to count here must be a better show than any of the professional producers and directors ever came up with. For instance, Frank Costello's tattoo during the Kefauver investigation was top-notch theater. The Lanza scandal will be dead before the mayoralty campaign gets moving, although the Republican will do their best to keep it alive.

You Know What To Do When Twister Comes?

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN

You are never absolutely safe from a tornado no matter where you live.

While few twisters occur in the area west of the Rocky Mountains, and Nevada has had only one in the past 70 years, every state in the nation has experienced them at one time or another. Texas, Iowa, Kansas, Mississippi and Oklahoma have had more than their share.

Loss of Lives

In fact, tornadoes take an average toll of about 232 lives each year.

Since I firmly believe that it's as much the duty of a doctor to prevent injuries as it is to treat them, I'd like to give you a few words of advice on how to protect yourself from harm during a tornado. This is especially timely I think, because most tornadoes occur during May and June.

If you have a storm cellar, of course, you have little to worry about. I know of no one ever having been killed by a tornado while inside such a shelter.

Safest Place

If you don't have one, and few of you do, the safest place is in the basement of your home. Since twisters usually travel from the southwest to the northeast, the southwest corner of the cellar offers the most protection.

If your home has no basement, lie on the floor of the first story next to an inner wall. Outside walls are likely to be blown away by the unequal air pressure. Seek refuge under a bed or a heavy table if you can.

Open Windows

And if you have time, open all windows and doors in the house. Shut off the water, gas and electricity, too.

Generally, tornadoes occur between 3 and 6 p. m., so it's likely you may be out shopping if one strikes your area.

In that case, seek shelter on the first floor of a large building, preferably one with numerous partitions. Churches, halls and other large open structures offer relatively little protection.

Since tornadoes usually move between 25 and 40 miles per hour, you may be able to outrun or outride it if on bears down upon you in the open country.

Winds on the left side of a tornado generally are less severe than those on the right, so run or drive to the left at a right angle with the twister. If you can't outrun it, get out of the car and find shelter in a ditch.

QUESTION AND ANSWER

M. H. W.: What is the cause of a nervous stomach and what can be done for it? X-rays show no organic trouble.

Answer: Nervous indigestion is due to the incorrect action of the stomach.

The treatment for nervous indigestion may include changing certain habits. Worry and overwork must be eliminated; diet must be simple.

In severe cases, prolonged rest in bed may be necessary.

Suzy Parker's Independence Causes Her Some Troubles

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD (AP)—Suzy Parker, who leaped from fashion photographer to film star in one large transatlantic jump, is an independent gal.

She has supported herself quite nicely since she was 15. She once refused to pay her income tax. And she swears she will never marry.

"Never!" she emphasized. "I admire men too much."

How's that again? "I make no bones about liking men more than women," she explained. "They are more interesting, more trustworthy than women."

"You can be in love with a man much better when you aren't married to him. When you marry, the relationship is destroyed. I don't want that. When I date a man, he knows I will never be a weight around his neck."

"I couldn't stand having a man support me, I'm too independent." She can say that again. Her independent course has taken her from the modeling world of New York to the capitals of Europe and now to the prospect of top stardom in movies. She is co-starring with Cary Grant and Jayne Mansfield in "Kiss Them for Me."

Now in her early 20s, Suzy has covered a lot of ground in that time. She was born in San Antonio, Tex. — that's Maverick country, y'know. She grew up in Pomona Springs, Fla., and went to boarding school in Jacksonville. But they couldn't keep Suzy down on the Bayou. During the summers, she modeled in New York. Her sister, top model Dorian Leigh, helped her get started.

"As soon as I graduated from high school, I shot to New York like a rocket," she said.

Her fresh southern beauty and reddish hair made her one of the highest paid models in New York. But she soon tired of looking vague for Vogue and haughty for Harper's bazaar.

So she dashed off to Paris to work as photographer for a photo agency. Before leaving, she neglected to pay her income tax. Her reasoning: "Taxation without representation is tyranny. If I couldn't vote, I wouldn't pay taxes."

Suzy worked on photo layouts all over Europe and North Africa, once getting nabbed behind the Iron Curtain in Berlin. She turned to modeling only when she was hungry.

After three years abroad, she gave up and returned to the United States. Relentless Uncle Sam was there to greet her. She had to return to modeling to pay off the tax.

Ike Calls on Nation To Honor All Mothers

WASHINGTON (AP)—President Eisenhower has called for nationwide observance of Mother's Day next Sunday.

"Let all the sons and daughters of this country pay tribute to their mothers on the appointed day and renew their devotion to the high principles of humanity which mothers exemplify," the President said in a proclamation.

The Nation Today

WASHINGTON (AP)—Democrats and Republicans both look like they've been hit on the head with an axe that kept on going. They're both split down the middle.

For more than four years President Eisenhower has acted towards Congress as if he thought his role was to be a tranquilizer to keep it soothed and relaxed.

But it seems he's fresh out of pills. He's in trouble. And he looks puzzled. His Republicans are milling around, aching to cut his budget.

The two most distinguished Democratic leaders — former President Truman and would-be President Adlai Stevenson — at a party get-together in Washington over the weekend cautioned Democrats against slashing into Eisenhower's budget.

But while they were blinking their amber light, the party's leader in the House, Speaker Rayburn of Texas, was talking of cutting the budget by billions.

This was an echo of what Rayburn's opposite number and fellow Democrat Lyndon Johnson, the Democrats' Senate leader, has already been saying.

Southern Democrats, in an effort to kill civil rights legislation this year, have offered an amendment to the bill for a federal law to ban union shops.

But the Democrats' advisory council, a 24-man group of Democratic leaders including Truman and Stevenson, came out against an anti-union shop amendment.

In short, there's no more unanimity in the Democratic party than there is among Republicans. Each party has members who consider themselves liberals — a mere handful — and a big batch that come under the conservative label.

And among the conservatives of both parties are those who take a stand far to the right of Truman, Stevenson and Eisenhower.

Truman's idea of dealing with Congress was to belt the opposition on the nose. He was in constant fights with the lawmakers.

Eisenhower tried tranquilizing them. He seldom fought for his programs and, by avoiding name-calling, he avoided being called names.

Some of his programs were massacred. But, by and large, in his first four years, he didn't do too badly on the total amount of legislation passed.

But now he's in real trouble: his budget seems certain to be cut. It's only the degree of the cut which is not yet clear.

He says he needs the money he asked for. But, faced with heavy slashes, he appears uncertain what to do.

Even a White House report that he might go on radio and television to appear for public support was indecisive.

And well it might be. Asking the public for support is a poor substitute for taking a vigorous stand with Congress and his own Republican leaders.

The two Republican leaders in Congress — Sen. Knowland of California in the Senate and Rep. Martin of Massachusetts in the House — have both publicly stated their desire for reductions in the budget.

The place for Eisenhower to put on the heat was with those two men. But, after talking with him the other day, they seemed completely unmoved in their opposition.

The budget is only one of a number of his programs which are in jeopardy.

It was predicted after Eisenhower's election victory last November that he'd lose control of his Republicans in Congress.

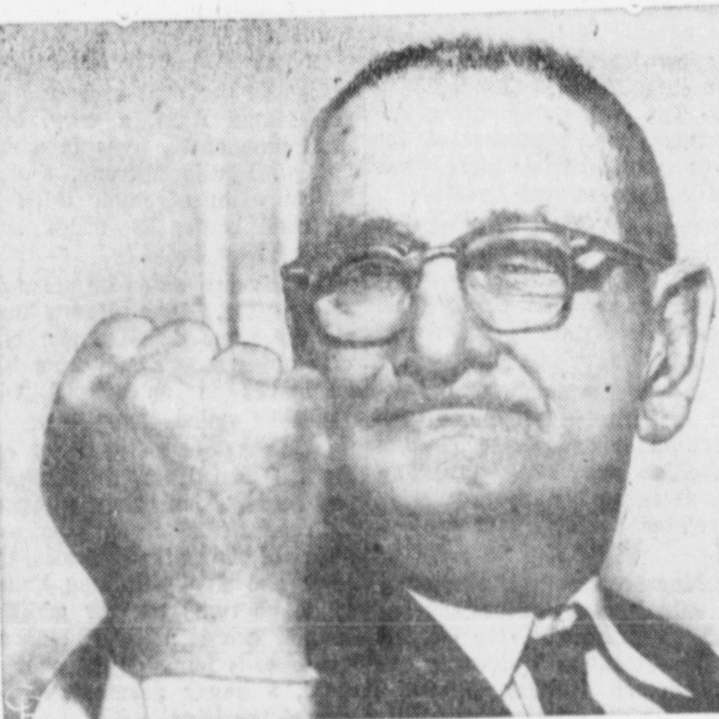

They kept fairly quiet in his first four years. That was when, because he could run again, he might carry the party back into control of Congress. But while he won, the party didn't.

And now, because of the constitutional ban on more than two terms, he can't win again. So he has outlived his political usefulness to a lot of Republicans.

What Will Develop Out of Sixth Fleet Move?

The sailing of the U. S. Sixth Fleet, into the waters in the neighborhood of Port Said, has many implications.

Such a mission recalls the time when the sending of such a fleet of U. S. naval ships appeared to be enough to settle much, if not all, international fits of temper. Our government apparently hopes that this act at this time will have such an effect.

News dispatches seem to indicate that our government particularly hopes, that this show of force will at least aid in maintaining the present status quo in the Middle East, where a youthful Jordan marches struggles, with some skill, to keep his country and his throne intact, and not permit Communism to gain control.

The stakes in the Middle East are high under present conditions and what transpires is being watched internationally, with more than ordinary interest.

The question arises whether Egypt and

President Nasser, can be held in check with his Hitler-like aspirations. He seems to be a diplomatic genius in the Egyptian-Syrian axis which appears determined to force Jordan to remain a part of an all-Arab, anti-Western bloc in the Middle East. His influence is not to be taken lightly.

There seemingly is enough of the pro-Soviet taint in both Egypt and Syria for the United States to look at the threat to Jordan as a real menace of world Communism; one that has real dangers.

Under the Eisenhower Doctrine, this country is pledged to defend any Middle Eastern country against Communist foes. If we are forced to live up to our pledges, then we may get into war.

So the mighty Sixth Fleet, sailed as quickly as it could without all of its men who were on leave in Europe. It probably will wave the Big Stick and maybe, our country hopes, tranquilize things.

75 Years Ago: Hot Pigs Knuckles

By Hal Boyle

NEW YORK (AP)—Just 75 years ago this month August Luchow, a waiter from Bavaria, borrowed $1,500 and opened a restaurant that soon became and remained a world famous celebrity haunt.

A rollcall of its clientele is an index of Manhattan's fabulous past studied by such names as Victor Herbert, Caruso, O. Henry, Al Smith, Ziegfeld, O. O. McIntyre, and of course, Mike Todd.

The names change, but the pig knuckles on the menu still come steaming hot and elephant-sized.

What was gay Gotham like back in May 1882 when August served up his first plate of sauerbraten with a seidel of foaming wurzberger beer?

Here is one Luchow patron's idea of what a gossip column of that vanished heyday of the full stomach might say—if the gossip column had been invented then:

Handsome Lord Randolph Churchill will be guest of honor at a party that Mrs. Astor and Ward McAllister are throwing next week. He left his beautiful wife, the former Jenny Jerome, and their young son, Winston, at Marlborough Castle.

There's a good chance that a federal civil service law will pass. The postoffice scandals and job buying have the voters up in arms. Health department worried about outbreak of typhus and smallpox on East 47th

New York-Cosmopolitan City

By George Sokolsky

When a city has a budget of nearly two billion dollars, it spends more money than many a country and the man who spends so much is an official of considerable importance.

It is not so very long ago that the government of the United States managed to get along on a billion a year, although it has now moved into the stratosphere beyond the comprehension of most taxpayers.

The population of New York City is larger than some European countries (such as Norway, Denmark or Switzerland) and to that must be added at least a million visitors a day who come from all over the world to see whatever wonders the town can provide. Policing New York is almost an impossible task because there is so much of it, about 320 square miles with 5,850 miles of streets.

The mayor of New York, an elected official, is its chief executive officer who presides over 203,000 city employees. Despite the enormity of the task, New Yorkers have rarely bothered in recent times to elect outstanding citizens as mayor although they have chosen some very colorful personalities such as Jimmy Walker, Fiorello La Guardia and Bill O'Dwyer. Most of the mayors have been Democrats.

The present mayor of New York, Robert F. Wagner, son of the United States Senator of the same name, is young, charming and effective. He is married and has two sons. The mayor's salary is $40,000 a year and among his perquisites is a home in Gracie Mansion, a beautiful colonial edifice on the East River.

The success or failure of a New York City mayor depends upon the commissioners he appoints for it is in the various commissions that inefficiency and corruption make themselves evident. Most of the commissioners are paid officials, although there are some, such as the president of the Board of Education, who serve without compensation.

The mayor is elected for a four-year term and Mayor Wagner is up for re-election this year. A Democrat, he will encounter no opposition in his own party. Carmine Desapio, the Democratic leader, is proclaiming that Wagner will win by a million votes. How correct this estimate is will be seen on Election Day but the utter bankruptcy of the Republican Party in this city is to be noted by the fact that no distinguished name has been suggested to run in opposition to Mayor Wagner.

In this city, the two party system has broken down, the Republicans here no longer affecting any large element among the voters. Unless some outrageous scandal occurs between now and election day in November, the Republicans are likely to nominate a nonentity who will find that being a candidate without hope of election is profitable because of the advertising value.

Popularity in New York is a psychological quality difficult to attain because of the concentration in this city of men and women whose special addiction is popularity. Actors, actresses, movie stars, national and other officials gather in New York to attract attention to themselves in the hope that they will be given space (with pictures) in the five morning newspapers and three afternoon newspapers of general circulation to say nothing of TV and radio coverage. There are probably two dozen banquets at each noonday and evening meal with several speakers at each, all hoping for a line of type.

Against all this competition, the local gentry have to battle for notice and distinction. Also this is a city of enormous scandals, because it is the center of the really large and important rackets and swindles.

A man in public life always walks a tight rope because even if he, personally, is as honest as a saint, he never can be sure that one of his numerous subordinates does not soil his fingers in the enormous pot of grease that is everlastingly available.

There has been little of this during the Wagner administration. The current scandal involving "Socks" Lanza, the fish market protection salesman, has thus far not involved any city officials.

Scandals to count here must be a better show than any of the professional producers and directors ever came up with. For instance, Frank Costello's tattoo during the Kefauver investigation was top-notch theater. The Lanza scandal will be dead before the mayoralty campaign gets moving, although the Republicans will do their best to keep it alive.

You're Telling Me

By WILLIAM RITT

The name of Daniel Webster is being urged as one of the five great solons who are to grace the Senatorial Hall of Fame. Old Dan'l would get a kick out of that for in his day a good many of the cheers he got were the Bronx variety.

An ex-lawyer, Senator Webster was one of the best orators ever to make the Senate chamber ring with strictly top-shelf language.

Webby had a finely-tuned set of vocal chords and he played on them like an angel manipulating a celestial harp.

Webster talked himself, however, into New England's political dog house when he spoke up for Henry Clay's Compromise of 1850 on the slavery question. "Traitors" was one of the mildest tags they hung on him.

Old Dan'l weathered the storm, however. It takes more than verbal brickbats to knock a sturdy New Englander down for the count.

Webby was a great meat-and-potatoes man and a handy guy with the stuff that cheers. So what happened? They named a cigar after him!

Daniel Webster tried hard—and often—to become President but never made the grade. Golden his tonsils may have been but, somehow, he just couldn't talk himself into the White House.

Former U. S. Senator Named As American Mother of '57

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Hazel Hempel Abel of Lincoln, Neb., 68-year-old former U. S. senator and construction company president, was named American Mother of 1957 today.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Daniel A. Poling, president of the American Mothers

Mrs. HAZEL HEMPEL ABLE

Committee, Inc., at the opening of the group's annual mother's conference.

Mrs. Abel is a widow with five children—four daughters and one son. She has six grandsons.

Mothers of the year from every state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico competed for the national title. A committee jury chose the winner.

"Hazel Abel's work embraces many fields—church and religious organizations, education, civic and welfare groups, and above them all stands out her work with youth," said the announcement.

"She has been awakening thousands everywhere to all the known causes of juvenile delinquency, and has been stimulating communities to study and put into effect modern ways of prevention. In her own state she is responsible for new interests in a statewide juvenile probation system, improved courts for children and reeducation of Nebraska's children's laws."

Mrs. Abel was born in Plattsmouth, Neb., and has lived in that state all her life. She met her late husband, George Abel, when the two were students at the University of Nebraska.

After graduation he started a construction company with $100 in savings. The business grew to a large firm.

When Abel died in 1937, his wife took over as company president. She ran the business for 15 years. Then she turned it over to her only son.

Mrs. Abel was elected to a short term in the U. S. Senate following the death of Sen. Dwight Griswold.

Next Friday she will be honored as the American Mother of 1957 at the annual awards luncheon of the mothers committee at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Former U. S. Senator Named As American Mother of '57

NEW YORK (AP) — Mrs. Hazel Hempel Abel of Lincoln, Neb., 68-year-old former U. S. senator and construction company president, was named American Mother of 1957 today.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Daniel A. Poling, president of the American Mothers children—four daughters and one son. She has six grandsons. Mothers of the year from every state, the District of Columbia and Puerto Rico competed for the national title. A committee jury chose the winner.

"Hazel Abel's work embraces many fields—church and religious organizations, education, civic and welfare groups, and above them all stands out her work with youth," said the announcement.

"She has been awakening thousands everywhere to all the known causes of juvenile delinquency, and has been stimulating communities to study and put into effect modern ways of prevention. In her own state she is responsible for new interests in a statewide juvenile probation system,

Mrs. HAZEL HEMPEL ABLE Committee, Inc., at the opening of the group's annual mother's conference. Mrs. Abel is a widow with five improved courts for children and recodification of Nebraska's children's laws."

Mrs. Abel was born in Plattsmouth, Neb., and has lived in that state all her life. She met her late husband, George Abel, when the two were students at the University of Nebraska.

After graduation he started a construction company with $100 in savings. The business grew to a large firm.

When Abel died in 1937, his wife took over as company president. She ran the business for 15 years. Then she turned it over to her only son.

Mrs. Abel was elected to a short term in the U. S. Senate following the death of Sen. Dwight Griswold.

Next Friday she will be honored as the American Mother of 1957 at the annual awards luncheon of the mothers committee at the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Much Shuffling Done For Next Fall's List

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (U)—All three major networks are still working overtime shuffling and reshuffling their autumn schedules, trying this show and that for future size, and the fall fate of many a program still hangs in the balance. But, as matters stand this moment, there will be a lot of changes made.

As of this writing, the decision of Lucille Ball and Desi Arnaz to stop grinding out new weekly adventures of I Love Lucy still stands, but CBS will rerun some of the popular shows in a new spot, Wednesdays.

Desi and Lucille would like to do a once-a-month, hourlong I Love Lucy but CBS hasn't yet found a sponsor willing to pick up the check for the film, price-tagged at $300,000 a shot.

There is still no solution concerning the television future of Jackie Gleason or his show, and the time has been filled with an hour film, Perry Mason, based on the Erle Stanley Gardner books. No one knows, either, what happens to Robert Montgomery or Sid Caesar, and now it looks as if Ray Bolger's Washington Square series may get the ax.

After years and years, Roy Rogers will no longer be riding and fighting on Sunday evening. Private Secretary will make way for a new series called Slezak and Sons. Both Bengal Lancers and Sir Lancelot will permanently fold their tents.

Two for the money will disappear in favor of New York Confidential, starring Lee Tracy. Patti Page will come into the old Wednesday night Arthur Godfrey spot.

NBC's early evening 15 minutes now holding Jonathan Winters, Xavier Cugat, Nat King Cole and Dinah Shore, will be dispersed. Only Dinah, with a big variety show modeled on her last season's hourlong variety shows, knows what the future holds. George Gobel is another involved in a shuffle: his old show dies, but he will do a 60-minute show, alternating with Eddie Fisher.

Danny Thomas will leave one network for another.

At ABC, Treasure Hunt will be replaced by adventure films, while Dean Pike's talks and the Johns Hopkins Files both have been canceled.

The time for the annual Clean-Up-Paint-Up-Fix-Up-Plant-Up campaign of Washington Court House is at hand.

At our regular May meeting our garden club decided to participate in anyway they could, in the clean-up campaign.

A flowering city is an attractive one, one in which people will linger. How beautiful it would be if we could have more window boxes in our downtown area. Some of our stores do have them at their entrances, and a warm and friendly welcome is conceived before you enter. A skill plan for flowers, shrubs, and tree plantings can establish Washington C. Don't Be Ashamed of Accent, Great Lady of Theater Says

By DOROTHY ROE
Associated Press Women's Editor
Don't be ashamed of your Brooklyn, Bronx or Midwestern accent, says Helen Menken, one of America's great ladies of the theater.

"There's nothing more boring than those beautiful pear-shaped tones, in which every word is a carefully formed golden nugget," says the sprightly, intense and still beautiful Miss Menken, who is devoting her time and efforts these days to a crusade to improve the quality of American speech through study of the works of Shakespeare.

Speech is a subject on which Miss Menken feels strongly. She did not learn to speak until she was 4, because her mother and father were deaf-mutes. When she discovered the wonders of speech, she cherished it as a precious gift, and has continued this attitude throughout her life. A few years ago a mastoid operation left the famous actress with a temporary speech paralysis.

"I had to start all over again," says she. "I began shaping the words from a child's primer. I had to learn how to use my vocal cords again, and now to make them obey the orders of my brain. Until you have been without speech, you never realize what a miraculous thing it is."

Miss Menken believes that the world's most eloquent words are to be found in the plays of Shakespeare, and that anyone who becomes familiar with the works of the Bard of Avon must naturally learn to speak beautifully.

Actor Irked By His Critics

'Wire Service' Star
Answers Newsmen

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Dane Clark, one of the three rotating stars of "Wire Service," has no patience with journalists who either car-pool about the way the series portrays working members of the profession.

"It's perfectly true that no one reporter could possibly have all the adventures assigned to him," says Clark aggressively. "No one could possibly go all the places and do all the things we have him doing. And it's true that the average reporter isn't the glamorous guy, always on the move, always in dangerous spots."

What we ignore, he continued, is that the television show is not a documentary of the working reporter.

"In 'Wire Service' we're trying to put together shows which will interest audiences and hold them. And in this thing, the reporter is only a symbol — he's a symbol for a whole lot of newspaper people who most of the time are doing dull jobs. If we showed 50 people working on a story, we wouldn't have anything left for the audience to hang on to."

Odd and Ends: Lawrence Welk, naturally, will celebrate Mother's Day eve next Saturday with some appropriate, sentimental music; Mike Wallace, naturally, will observe the day by interviewing Philip Wylie, the writer who turned controversial by inventing "Momism," a feminine dictatorship over men. It looks like a good week for musicals: Wednesday night Duke Ellington in CBS' jazz fantasy, "A Drum is a Woman," and Saturday night Mickey Rooney heading the cast in NBC's musical biography of George M. Cohan, "Mr. Broadway."

Round about Fayette County

By B. E. KELLEY

Later this week when the new Monotrol Traffic Signal system is in full operation here — the first of its kind in Ohio — some new features will be in evidence, including longer time between lights on main streets during peak flow of traffic.

In other words when the master control is put in operation it will be set to give more time during the periods of peak loads than ordinary times, and this will expedite flow of traffic at a time when it is most needed.

Another outstanding feature of the new system is that "fire lanes" will be possible. All that will be necessary to clear the way for fire equipment will be to press buttons on the master control before firemen leave the department building, and green lights will show over the route to be taken.

Today an expert from the Eagle Signal Co. factory was expected to be here to remain until any "bugs" are ironed out and the system is functioning smoothly.

Cleveland is now expending over $300,000 for a similar system in part of that city, and the success of the system here will be watched by officials of a great many cities.

Incidentally, the money is in the city treasury to pay the cost of the system, approximately $24,000, as soon as work is completed.

For the past several days the new system has been in partial operation here, the lights operating on individual controls instead of the master control which synchronizes all of the lights.

OLD OPERA HOUSES

A copy of The Daily Herald of Nov. 1, 1886, shows that the "Opera House" which formerly stood on the tract of ground on W. Market St. between rear of the Main Restaurant and the alley next to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Warren L. Bryan, and "Music Hall", which was on the second floor over the Link Gas Co. store, 134 S. Main St., were in regular use.

The Opera House was condemned as unsafe and torn out around 1909, and the Music Hall was abandoned sometime prior to that.

Both places in their day attracted large audiences and variety of entertainments were held.

Much of old Music Hall remains, including the dome ceiling which resulted in almost perfect acoustics.

I attended a cori. show held in the old Opera House soon after it came to Washington C. H. and entered the newspaper field, and as I recall that was one of the last things held there. The Opera House was of frame construction with the stage on the east side.

Music Hall was reached by a broad, long stairway on the south side of the present building, but this was torn out some 35 years ago when the block was remodeled.

John L. Sullivan, champion heavyweight boxer, once fought in Music Hall.

The two notices of attractions carried in the Nov. 1, 1886, issue of The Daily Herald read: "Tonight, at the Opera House, E. T. Stetson's great sensational drama, 'Neck and Neck', will appear. This is a very popular company, who has a big reputation in the cities where they draw large houses. Reserved seats are selling fast at Coffman's, but there are plenty left. Admission 50 cents, children 25 cents."

The other notice reads:

"The temperance meeting at Music Hall yesterday afternoon was addressed by Hon. H. L. Hadley and Hon. A. R. Creamer, and was conducted by Rev. Lewis. The meeting was well attended. These meetings will be held in Music Hall every Sunday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock, and speakers will be procured to address the people. Good music will be furnished."

RING THIEVES BUSY

A few days ago two well dressed women entered a local jewelry store, and, according to the jeweler, tried to work that old racket of one attracting the jeweler's attention while the other picked up a ring and concealed it.

It was an old, old scheme but the jeweler immediately "caught on" when they first asked to look at rings, then almost immediately asked to see wristwatches, cuff

As they started to walk out of the store after saying they could not make up their minds what to get, the jeweler said to one of the women:

She had been holding one hand over the ring since she had picked it up soon after they entered the store.

Rogers Appointed Highland Auditor

HILLSBORO —Byron Rogers, 65, Highland County commissioner for 16 years, yesterday received commission for appointment as county auditor to succeed Clayton M. Cockerill whose death Friday night vacated the office.

Charles S. Summers Jr., chairman of the Highland County Board of Commissioners, announced the appointment.

Rogers is a Republican.

Rogers expects to open the office to the public Tuesday afternoon or Wednesday.

As an appointee, Rogers will serve as auditor until the next election for that office, in November, 1958.

The Board of Commissioners issued a statement expressing regret that it was necessary to act with such seeming haste in naming a new auditor so shortly after Mr. Cockerill's death, but they explained that there now is $250,000 in the auditor's funds which must be distributed to subdivisions with as little delay as possible, and they felt they were obliged to arrange for this to be done.

Radio 'Up in Air' Because of Balloon

BOWLING GREEN (AP) — Radio Station WWBG here was "up in the air" about a balloon.

The 21-foot, zeppelin-shaped balloon had been used to keep transmitting wires aloft after a storm knocked down the station's transmitting tower.

Then somebody took a pot shot at the balloon with a rifle. While station employees were inspecting the damage, the balloon took off on a gust of wind.

Bedraggled and dirty, it was found later on a barbed wire fence at a farm 20 miles south of here.

Actor Irked By His Critics

'Wire Service' Star
Answers Newsmen

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
NEW YORK (AP) — Actor Dane Clark, one of the three rotating stars of "Wire Service," has no patience with journalists who either car-pool about the way the series portrays working members of the profession.

"It's perfectly true that no one reporter could possibly have all the adventures assigned to him," says Clark aggressively. "No one could possibly go all the places and do all the things we have him doing. And it's true that the average reporter isn't the glamorous guy, always on the move, always in dangerous spots."

What we ignore, he continued, is that the television show is not a documentary of the working reporter.

"In 'Wire Service' we're trying to put together shows which will interest audiences and hold them. And in this thing, the reporter is only a symbol — he's a symbol for a whole lot of newspaperpeople who most of the time are doing dull jobs. If we showed 50 people working on a story, we wouldn't have anything left for the audience to hang on to."

Odd and Ends: Lawrence Welk, naturally, will celebrate Mother's Day eve next Saturday with some appropriate, sentimental music; Mike Wallace, naturally, will observe the day by interviewing Philip Wylie, the writer who turned controversial by inventing "Momism," a feminine dictatorship over men. . . . It looks like a good week for musicals: Wednesday night Duke Ellington in CBS' jazz fantasy, "A Drum is a Woman," and Saturday night Mickey Rooney heading the cast in NBC's musical biography of George M. Cohan, "Mr. Broadway."

Round about Fayette County

Later this week when the new Monotrol Traffic Signal system is in full operation here — the first of its kind in Ohio — some new features will be in evidence, including longer time between lights on main streets during peak flow of traffic.

In other words when the master control is put in operation it will be set to give more time during the periods of peak loads than ordinary times, and this will expedite flow of traffic at a time when it is most needed.

Another outstanding feature of the new system is that "fire lanes" will be possible. All that will be necessary to clear the way for fire equipment will be to press buttons on the master control before firemen leave the department building, and green lights will show over the route to be taken.

Today an expert from the Eagle Signal Co. factory was expected to be here to remain until any "bugs" are ironed out and the system is functioning smoothly.

Cleveland is now expending over $300,000 for a similar system in part of that city, and the success of the system here will be watched by officials of a great many cities.

Incidentally, the money is in the city treasury to pay the cost of the system, approximately $24,000, as soon as work is completed.

For the past several days the new system has been in partial operation here, the lights operating on individual controls instead of the master control which synchronizes all of the lights.

Labor Pendulum May Be Swinging

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles dealing with the growth and problems of organized labor.

By RELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, chairman of the Senate committee investigating labor and management practices, describes a "pendulum of extremes and excesses" in their relations.

He recalls the days when the unions were young and weak. To see that period at close range — On the morning of July 2, 1910, New York newspapers published a startling story. They reported that the Ladies Waistmakers Union had won a 52-hour work week.

In the context of the times, this was sensational news. A 60-hour week was average in the garment industry then. At seasonal peak periods, people worked from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. Then they carried sewing machines home so they could continue at night.

Many were teen-age girls and children. Harpers magazine printed a picture of a spindle-legged little girl going home, bent double beneath a load of unfinished garments.

Wages averaged between $3 and $6 a week. Out of this, in some cities, workers were required to pay for heat in the shops.

In New York, the law called for one lavatory for every 25 employees. Inspectors found shops where there was one for every 85.

On a windy spring day, 154 people died when fire broke out in a dress shop. A girl named Rosey Safran said, "They had the doors locked all the time." About a third of the victims jumped to death from the eighth floor of the building.

That was one industry. But in many others, death came out of working conditions and the strife growing from demands to correct them. It went into the mines and factories, attended strikers' meetings, and even came home with them.

Men were beaten and shot to death, and there were riots, martial law, calls for troops during strikes. Gangs like the "Molly Maguires" of Pennsylvania moved into the picture.

Gangsters worked both sides of the street in the bloody organizing wars in the New York dress industry some 30 years ago. The manufacturers hired "Legs" Diamond to keep their shops nonunion. The unions lined up "Little Augie" O'Brien for picket line duty.

It developed that "Legs" and "Little Augie" were both in the employ of the same man — Arnold Rothstein, the gambling king.

Today, organized labor is big, strong, wealthy, and in many instances, highly sophisticated in its dealings with management.

There are between 15 and 17 million men in American unions — an estimated one-fourth of the total working force.

A Senate labor subcommittee estimated last year that pension and welfare funds totaled more than 25 billion dollars. The figure is probably over 30 billion now. It covers over 45 million dependents.

Testimony in the Senate about teamster officials handling of pension funds has made them a white-hot object of scrutiny, in and out of organized labor ranks. A Senate committee last year found many unions made no reports on the money or only careless accounts.

But some publish meticulous yearly reports. The 1956 statement of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union covers 15 large pages. It lists all officers' salaries and breaks down expenditures to the smallest items, even stationery and postage.

All this — the growth in size, influence and wealth — stems largely from legislation passed in the 1930s. Labor soared on the winds of the National Industrial Recovery Act, guaranteeing its right to organize; the Norris-LaGuardia Act, limiting the use of injunctions in labor disputes; the Wage and Hour Law, and the Wagner Act.

With new higness came new problems.

Through sheer pressure of business, officers in the big unions grew farther away from the rank and file. That left room for rigged elections on the level of the local, instances where none at all were held for years.

Apathy was another problem. Today, union officials say, attendance at locals' meetings often falls as low as 5 per cent of the membership.

"We are suffering from our own success," a top official said.

"Paper locals" — charters for nonexistent unions came into being. Racketeers used them for extortion, particularly against small business establishments and those handling perishable foods.

And unions, with management collusion, have been charged with restraint of trade.

McClellan says the labor laws of the 1930s and particularly the Wagner Act "freed labor from the shackles of oppression that had been imposed by management, but the strained and distorted interpretations placed upon it (the Wagner Act) and the character of administration given to it caused the pendulum of extremes and excesses to swing too far in the other direction."

Is the pendulum due swing back now?

McCarthy Story Beginning Pegged at Wheeling, W. Va.

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of three articles on the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy by a reporter who knew him well.

By ED CREAGH
WASHINGTON (AP)—Where did the Joe McCarthy story begin?

In a white clapboard farmhouse in Wisconsin where McCarthy was born?

In the South Pacific, where a brash, young Marine officer decided to go home and shoot for a seat in the U. S. Senate?

Or at Wheeling, W. Va., where Sen. Joseph Raymond McCarthy

started the anti-Communist crusade which was to make him perhaps the most admired and the most hated American of the early 1950s?

Wheeling is the best bet. On the night of Feb. 9, 1950, the restless junior senator from Wisconsin, in a routine talk to a crowd of Republican women, made a name for himself.

"I have here in my hand," said the speaker of the evening, "a list—"

And what he said after that is lost forever, probably, in the swirl of controversy that McCarthy churned up all during his public life.

Some say—and McCarthy denied—that he claimed to hold a list of 205 known Communists working at that moment in the State Department, or at least chipping department policy.

McCarthy himself varied the figure and the degree of accusation. He changed "Communists" to "bad security risks" the next day at Denver. Then at Salt Lake City he referred to "57 card-carrying Communists" in the State Department. Later he put the figure at 81.

Whatever he said, Joe McCarthy was big news overnight. And he remained a top headline figure four years.

His enemies saw him as a squint-eyed, sneering demagogue with a curious high-pitched laugh—a ruthless self-seeker.

Some of McCarthy's defenders, on the other hand, all but revered him as a selfless, dedicated, single-handed crusader—and a warm friendly, fine fellow as well.

McCarthy welcomed the support of President Eisenhower at one point, but came to challenge President Eisenhower's leadership of the Republican party and even to apologize for backing him in 1952.

Eisenhower, it became clear, detested McCarthy even though he did endorse the senator for reelection in 1952, in the hope of getting a GOP majority in the Senate.

McCarthy fought with Cabinet members, ambassadors, college presidents, generals—a host of enemies. He hurled such words as "stupid," "gutless," and "dishonest" with abandon—and was assailed with equal fervor as a perpetrator of "the big lie."

Joe had few friends, and a dedicated bloc of enemies, in the Senate, which took the nearly unprecedented step of voting condemnation of his conduct in 1954. But his popular support was considerable.

Some people continued to love Joe, even after events had passed him by. To many others, he was at best a distasteful hangover from an ugly period in American life.

Labor Pendulum May Be Swinging

Editor's Note: Following is the second in a series of articles dealing with the growth and problems of organized labor.

By RELMAN MORIN
WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. John L. McClellan, chairman of the Senate committee investigating labor and management practices, describes a "pendulum of extremes and excesses" in their relations.

He recalls the days when the unions were young and weak. To see that period at close range —

On the morning of July 2, 1910, New York newspapers published a startling story. They reported that the Ladies Waistmakers Union had won a 52-hour work week.

In the context of the times, this was sensational news.

A 60-hour week was average in the garment industry then. At seasonal peak periods, people worked from 7 a. m. to 8 p. m. Then they carried sewing machines home so they could continue at night.

Many were teen-age girls and children. Harpers magazine printed a picture of a spindle-legged little girl going home, bent double beneath a load of unfinished garments.

Wages averaged between $3 and $6 a week. Out of this, in some cities, workers were required to pay for heat in the shops.

In New York, the law called for one lavatory for every 25 employees. Inspectors found shops where there was one for every 85.

On a windy spring day, 154 people died when fire broke out in a dress shop. A girl named Rosey Safran said, "They had the doors locked all the time." About a third of the victims jumped to death from the eighth floor of the building.

That was one industry.

But in many others, death came out of working conditions and the strife growing from demands to correct them. It went into the mines and factories, attended strikers' meetings, and even came home with them.

Men were beaten and shot to death, and there were riots, martial law, calls for troops during strikes. Gangs like the "Molly Maguires" of Pennsylvania moved into the picture.

Gangsters worked both sides of the street in the bloody organizing wars in the New York dress industry some 30 years ago. The manufacturers hired "Legs" Diamond to keep their shops nonunion. The unions lined up "Little Augie" Orger for picket line duty.

It developed that "Legs" and "Little Augie" were both in the employ of the same man — Arnold Rothstein, the gambling king.

Today, organized labor is big, strong, wealthy, and in many instances, highly sophisticated in its dealings with management.

There are between 15 and 17 million men in American unions — an estimated one-fourth of the total working force.

A Senate labor subcommittee estimated last year that pension and welfare funds totaled more than 25 billion dollars. The figure is probably over 30 billion now. It covers over 45 million dependents.

Testimony in the Senate about teamster officials handling of pension funds has made them a white-hot object of scrutiny, in and out of organized labor ranks. A Senate committee last year found many unions made no reports on the money or only careless accounts.

But some publish meticulous yearly reports. The 1956 statement of the International Ladies Garment Workers Union covers 15 large pages. It lists all officers' salaries and breaks down expenditures to the smallest items, even stationery and postage.

All this — the growth in size, influence and wealth — stems largely from legislation passed in the 1930s. Labor soared on the winds of the National Industrial Recovery Act, guaranteeing its right to organize; the Norris-LaGuardia Act, limiting the use of injunctions in labor disputes; the Wage and Hour Law, and the Wagner Act.

With new higness came new problems.

Through sheer pressure of business, officers in the big unions grew farther away from the rank and file. That left room for rigged elections on the level of the local, instances where none at all were held for years.

Apathy was another problem. Today, union officials say, attendance at locals' meetings often falls as low as 5 per cent of the membership.

"We are suffering from our own success," a top official said.

"Paper locals" — charters for nonexistent unions 8 came into being. Racketeers used them for extortion, particularly against small business establishments and those handling perishable foods.

And unions, with management collusion, have been charged with restraint of trade. McClellan says the labor laws of the 1930s and particularly the Wagner Act "freed labor from the shackles of oppression that had been imposed by management, but the strained and distorted interpretations placed upon it (the Wagner Act) and the character of administration given to it caused the pendulum of extremes and excesses to swing too far in the other direction."

Is the pendulum due swing back now?

McCarthy Story Beginning Pegged at Wheeling, W. Va.

Editor's Note: Following is the last in a series of three articles on the late Sen. Joseph McCarthy by a reporter who knew him well.

By ED CREAGH
WASHINGTON (AP)—Where did the Joe McCarthy story begin?

In a white clapboard farmhouse in Wisconsin where McCarthy was born?

In the South Pacific, where a brash, young Marine officer decided to go home and shoot for a seat in the U. S. Senate?

Or at Wheeling, W. Va., where Sen. Joseph Raymond McCarthy

started the anti-Communist crusade which was to make him perhaps the most admired and the most hated American of the early 1950s?

Wheeling is the best bet. On the night of Feb. 9, 1950, the restless junior senator from Wisconsin, in a routine talk to a crowd of Republican women, made a name for himself.

"I have here in my hand," said the speaker of the evening, "a list—"

And what he said after that is lost forever, probably, in the swirl of controversy that McCarthy churned up all during his public life.

Some say—and McCarthy denied—that he claimed to hold a list of 205 known Communists working at that moment in the State Department, or at least shaping department policy.

McCarthy himself varied the figure and the degree of accusation. He changed "Communists" to "bad security risks" the next day at Denver. Then at Salt Lake City he referred to "57 card-carrying Communists" in the State Department. Later he put the figure at 81.

Whatever he said, Joe McCarthy was big news overnight. And he remained a top headline figure four years.

His enemies saw him as a squint-eyed, sneering demagogue with a curious high-pitched laugh—a ruthless self-seeker.

Some of McCarthy's defenders, on the other hand, all but revered him as a selfless, dedicated, single-handed crusader—and a warm, friendly, fine fellow as well.

McCarthy welcomed the support of President Eisenhower at one point, but came to challenge President Eisenhower's leadership of the Republican party and even to apologize for backing him in 1952.

Eisenhower, it became clear, detested McCarthy even though he did endorse the senator for reelection in 1952, in the hope of getting a GOP majority in the Senate.

McCarthy fought with Cabinet members, ambassadors, college presidents, generals—a host of enemies. He hurled such words as "stupid," "gutless," and "dishonest" with abandon—and was assailed with equal fervor as a perpetrator of "the big lie."

Joe had few friends, and a dedicated bloc of enemies, in the Senate, which took the nearly unprecedented step of voting condemnation of his conduct in 1954. But his popular support was considerable.

Some people continued to love Joe, even after events had passed him by. To many others, he was at best a distasteful hangover from an ugly period in American life.

One of the largest manufacturers of auto brake parts is located at Paulding.

The British fought the Boer war against the African settlers, who were largely of Dutch descent.

Those Flashes Look Mighty Tough Again

Editor's Note: This is the fourth of six articles dealing with the prospects of Little League baseball teams this coming season.

Although every other Little League manager in town is gunning for him, Mentor John Breiner of the Record-Herald Flashes looks upon the coming season with an almost mystic Oriental calm.

"I don't expect my team to be any weaker this year," assured the man who has managed the only Little League champions Washington C. H. has ever known.

Does that mean the Flashes are a shoo-in?

"I didn't say that at all," Breiner parried, explaining: "I only said, 'I don't think my team will be any weaker.'"

IF THAT'S the truth, then that's a plenty. Because Breiner's team could be a lot weaker and still be in the Little League running.

Though they've had stiff competition both times, the Flashes have come away with the championship at the end of each of the two Little League seasons observed here so far.

And last year's team was just about the most star-studded squad ever to grace the league.

Who else, for instance, had an infielder like shortstop "Butch" Ribber, voted most valuable player in the league, and clearly the most valuable man in the Breiner lineup? Or how many pitchers were there like Buck Jones? Or catchers like Dale Mathews?

There were some, as any other manager will be quick to say. But not too many. And those three Flashes were back up by such talent as infielder-outfielder Ken Miller and second-baseman Bud Naylor.

All five of these men will have to be replaced this year if Breiner's team "won't be any weaker."

But the chief thinks he can do it.

FOR EXAMPLE, he's got two experienced pitchers in Bill Halliday and Billy Henderson. And he says, a trifle cryptically, that he plans to use "other boys as well, though I'm not sure who yet."

For the catching spot, he's going to replace Mathews with Naylor's brother, Bill, only 11 years old, but already boasting a credible amount of experience.

In the infield, Breiner expects to count on Larry Armbrust at first and Myron Lambert at third. Around the horn, where he lost Ribber and Naylor, he'll have to do some filling, but he says, securely, "I draw his new boys straight from the tryouts."

"I'd rather pick up a boy when he's young and train him right along," Breiner said. If that's the theory he's been working on these past two years—watch out!

Mayor of Frisco To Talk Baseball

SAN FRANCISCO (AP)—San Francisco will make another bid for major league baseball Thursday when Mayor George Christopher flies to New York to meet Brooklyn President Walter O'Malley.

Christopher declined to speculate on a 10-team National League, a two-division league or shifting of franchise. He said O'Malley "has something in mind that is brand new."

The Dodger president has discussed West Coast baseball with financiers and major league officials since his return to New York from Los Angeles last week.

DESIGNED FOR THE FUTURE

Four good reasons why today's superior concrete pavement will save lives and dollars for generations of American drivers on the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways:

1. Safety. Gritty texture for better skid-resistance, lighter color for higher visibility.
2. Durability. Much longer service life than any other type of pavement.
3. Low upkeep. Lowest maintenance cost as proven by published figures.
4. Costs no more to build. Lower first cost than other types designed for the same traffic.

Best investment for your tax dollars—concrete!

Big Ten Chiefs Debating Result of Financial Aid Law

CHICAGO (AP)—Big Ten athletic leaders found themselves divided today on whether the new financial aid to athletes program led to wholesale raiding by outside schools.

Stu Holcomb, Northwestern athletic director, blamed the plan for large scale raids in the Chicago area but received the backing of only three other schools—Iowa, Minnesota and Indiana.

The others—Illinois, Michigan, Michigan State, Wisconsin, Ohio State and Purdue — said they could see little or no difference.

The 6-4 margin is the same by which the Big Ten approved the new program last February. The plan prohibits a conference school from making a formal or verbal tender of aid to an athlete until June 15. It also bases aid to athletes on proven need and financial statements from parents are required to prove such need.

Holcomb said "In time the plan will kill us. I am sure the rest of the conference has anticipated an invasion of recruiting forces from outside because of the new plan."

Holcomb listed the following schools as "very aggressively recruiting in this area:"

Notre Dame, Pitt, Syracuse, Stanford, Colorado, Kansas, Kansas State, Kentucky, Nebraska and all Ivy League schools.

Frank Allen, athletic director at Indiana—one of the schools originally voting for the plan—said he expects some changes in the Western Conference program because "The Big Ten isn't going to be satisfied to be a second rate athletic league."

Minnesota and Iowa both backed Holcomb and said they felt the heavier recruiting in their area but others didn't go along.

Ray Eddy, basketball coach at Purdue, said the effect of non-Big Ten recruiting aids could not be determined until after mid-June. "I believe we've had more high school senior athletes visiting our campus than ever before," he added.

Illinois Athletic Director Doug Mills said "I don't see any difference. All of these schools always recruited heavily in the Northern Illinois area."

"As to the question of losing prospective athletes," Mills continued, "that's something we will not know until June 15. I see no reason for crying now."

Michigan State and Wisconsin could see no change while Michigan strongly favored the new plan.

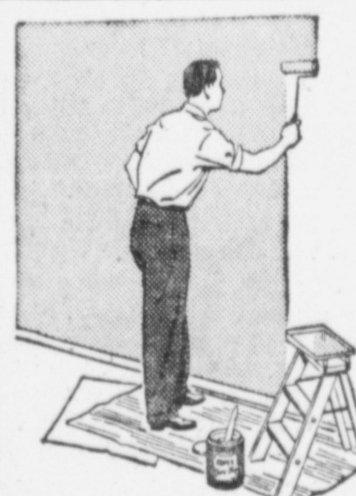

"Before the new aid program went into effect, we were outbid by both outstate and Big Ten schools," said Bob Hollway, assistant football coach. "We like the new method because every school has an even chance as long as it is enforced."

Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes said raiding reports are "grossly exaggerated. Sure, the grant in aid plan has led to raiding in a small degree but raiding has been going on for 50 years and will continue to go on. But any idea that it's going to hurt the Big Ten is ridiculous."

All bricks used in Virginia during the 17th and 18th centuries seem to have been made there and not imported from England, according to some historians.

FOR THE OUTFIELD, likely prospects are Billy Marting, Wally Matson, Terry Armbrust and Danny Curtin.

In order to fill the infield holes, and in order to get other available second-flan't talent, Breiner says he will utilize an unusual procedure: he'll probably steer clear of the minors and the trading block and

DESIGNED FOR THE FUTURE

Four good reasons why today's superior concrete pavement will save lives and dollars for generations of American drivers on the National System of Interstate and Defense Highways:

1. Safety. Gritty texture for better skid-resistance, lighter color for higher visibility.
2. Durability. Much longer service life than any other type of pavement.
3. Low upkeep. Lowest maintenance cost as proven by published figures.
4. Costs no more to build. Lower first cost than other types designed for the same traffic.

Best investment for your tax dollars—concrete!

Big Ten Chiefs Debating Result of Financial Aid Law

CHICAGO (U)—Big Ten athletic leaders found themselves divided today on whether the new financial aid to athletes program led to wholesale raiding by outside schools.

Stu Holcomb, Northwestern athletic director, blamed the plan for large scale raids in the Chicago area but received the backing of only three other schools—Iowa, Minnesota and Indiana.

The others—Illinois, Michigan, Michigan State, Wisconsin, Ohio State and Purdue — said they could see little or no difference.

The 6-4 margin is the same by which the Big Ten approved the new program last February. The plan prohibits a conference school from making a formal or valid tender of aid to an athlete until June 15. It also bases aid to athletes on proven need and financial statements from parents are required to prove such need.

Holcomb said "In time the plan will kill us. I am sure the rest of the conference has anticipated an invasion of recruiting forces from outside because of the new plan."

Holcomb listed the following schools as "very aggressively recruiting in this area."

Notre Dame, Pitt, Syracuse, Stanford, Colorado, Kansas, Kansas State, Kentucky, Nebraska and all Ivy League schools.

Frank Allen, athletic director at Indiana—one of the schools originally voting for the plan—said he expects some changes in the Western Conference program because "The Big Ten isn't going to be satisfied to be a second rate athletic league."

Minnesota and Iowa both backed Holcomb and said they felt the heavier recruiting in their area but others didn't go along.

Ray Eddy, basketball coach at Purdue, said the effect of non-Big Ten recruiting aids could not be determined until after mid-June. "I believe we've had more high school senior athletes visiting our campus than ever before," he added.

Illinois Athletic Director Doug Mills said "I don't see any difference. All of these schools always recruited heavily in the Northern Illinois area."

"As to the question of losing prospective athletes," Mills continued, "that's something we will not know until June 15. I see no reason for crying now."

Michigan State and Wisconsin could see no change while Michigan strongly favored the new plan.

"Before the new aid program went into effect, we were outbid by both outstate and Big Ten schools," said Bob Holloway, assistant football coach. "We like the new method because every school has an even chance as long as it is enforced."

Ohio State football coach Woody Hayes said raiding reports are "grossly exaggerated. Sure, the grant in aid plan has led to raiding in a small degree but raiding has been going on for 50 years and will continue to go on. But any idea that it's going to hurt the Big Ten is ridiculous."

All bricks used in Virginia during the 17th and 18th centuries seem to have been made there and not imported from England, according to some historians.

Crazy Bounce Beats Braves At Brooklyn

Burdette Mad Enough To Spit as Freak Robs Him of Victory

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
 Lew Burdette was mad enough today to spit. And so were the rest of the Milwaukee Braves.

The ball took a crazy bounce Monday at the most inopportune moment, depriving Burdette of his fourth victory and the Braves of a 4-3 triumph over Brooklyn.

Instead, the Dodgers went on to win 5-4 in 14 innings to gain a split in their two-game series at Ebbets Field.

Here's what happened. The Dodgers were at bat in the 12th, trailing 4-3, two out, runners on first and second and Carl Furillo the batter.

Burdette, who had overcome a 3-0 deficit and a warning from plate umpire Lee Ballanfant after nearly decapitating Roy Campanella with a pitch, was getting along swimmingly. Since the first inning, when Carl Furillo smashed a three-run homer, the Dodgers hadn't come within spitting distance of a run. Burdette disposed of the first two batters easily but Gino Cimoli clubbed a double for his fourth hit.

Sandy Amoros walked on a 3-2 pitch but the game apparently was over when Furillo sent a bouncer to shortstop. Just as Johnny Logan got set to field the ball, it took a bad hop over his head and Cimoli raced home with the tying run.

In the 14th, Cimoli crashed a pitch by reliever Red Murff into the left field stands for a home run to break up the overtime tussle.

Cimoli's fifth hit of the game further deepened Milwaukee's chagrin because the Dodger outfielder had made only four hits throughout the entire 1955 season—in 73 games—and his loudest hit was a two-bagger. To further rub it in, the Dodger victory was gained by Sandy Koufax, who retired the Braves in order in the 14th inning to gain his first major league success against them.

In the only other game in the National League, the Chicago Cubs whipped the New York Giants 6-2 to move into a seventh place tie with Pittsburgh. Young Don Kaiser hurled a six-hitter for his first victory of the year.

Kansas City, the early season surprise of the American League, broke a three-way tie for fourth place with an 8-2 victory over Washington. Baltimore dropped Detroit into sixth place, defeating the Tigers 8-6 in 13 innings.

Between them Cimoli and Furillo drove in all Brooklyn's runs and collected nine of the team's 13 hits off Burdette and loser Murff. Mathews and Adcock furnished all Milwaukee's runs. Mathews walloped his second and third homers of the season and added two singles. Adcock walloped his sixth homer in the eighth but fanned four times. Hank Aaron, who entered the game with a league leading .417 batting average, went 0 for six.

Pee Wee Reese saw action for the first time this season. The Dodger captain, who had been sidelined since opening day with a sprained back, took over at shortstop in the 10th inning but went hitless.

A six-run first inning, highlighted by rookie outfielder Jim Pisoni's grand slam homer, made it easy for Ned Garver to register his second victory with a six-hitter. Chuck Stobbs, who has yet to win, lasted just one inning and was charged with his fifth setback.

Jim Ewidewer, sold last season by Detroit to Baltimore, gained revenge with a 13th-inning double that drove in Gus Triandos and Dick Williams with the tie-breaking runs. Williams had driven two runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth to tie the score 6-6.

The victor went to George Zverink, Jack Crimian, fifth Tiger hurler, was the loser.

A four-run explosion by Chicago in the sixth chased Giant starter Ruben Gomez. Ed Winceniak, rookie infielder, and Lee Walls, drove in two runs each for the Cubs.

53 Boys Selected for Final Little League Team Tryouts

Working carefully through the arduous process of sifting and sorting, Washington C. H. Little League officials have selected 53 boys of the 233 who originally tried out and asked them to come back for a second look at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Biting nails, these are the 53 that managers finally decided were worth further consideration. It wasn't easy, they admit, for there was a lot of talent out on the field during every tryout session.

Every one of the boys who tried out originally will have a chance at

Shoemaker's Boner Brings Suspension

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—One of the biggest miscues in racing history has cost jockey Willie Shoemaker a 15-day suspension.

Churchill Downs suspended Shoemaker Monday for "gross carelessness" in misjudging the finish line in last Saturday's 83rd running of the Kentucky Derby.

Shoemaker's mount, Gallant Man, finished second in a photo finish to Calumet Farm's Iron Liege.

After the race, Shoemaker said he mistook the 16th pole for the finish line and eased up on his mount.

Officials at the Downs said their authority is limited to Kentucky, but, normally all American tracks will honor the suspension, which goes into effect tomorrow.

Shoemaker agreed the action will keep him out of the Preakness at Baltimore's Pimlico track May 18. He added he had been assigned to ride Gallant Man in that race.

Trainer Johnny Nerud said the incident was "just something that could happen to any rider. I blame the race track, not Shoemaker. They got no business putting the finish wire down near the first turn and all those poles are the same color."

A Churchill Downs spokesman who took an opposite opinion commented:

"We at Churchill Downs are of the opinion that the finish pole is the easiest of all things to distinguish at the track on Derby day."

Lawrence declared flatly that "This is the best year, qualitatively and quantitatively, the tryouts have had so far."

Tigers To Play Tourney Game at Athens Thursday

District Championship At Stake for Jeff Baseball Team

The Jeffersonville High School baseball Tigers, rolling down a path that could lead to the state title, will play Amesburne High School in Athens County at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in Ohio University at Athens.

Winner of that game will be declared a district champ.

Having won the county title, as well as three elimination rounds in the district tourney, Tiger spirits are high as they go into the higher ranks. They should be, for the prize is big: a regional tournament slot in either Columbus or Dayton goes to the victor.

Actually, Thursday's game is both a semi-final and a final game in the district. It's this way: Because this southeastern district has more teams than most other districts in the state, tournament powers are allowing two champs to be crowned.

So the victor of the Jeff-Amesburne game will represent the district in one regional tourney, while the winner of a Middleport-South Webster contest will win a place in another.

Which team will play at Columbus and which at Dayton will be selected on mileage.

Redlegs Set For Battle With Brooks

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs today stood only two victories away from second place in the National League and a practically unheard of clean sweep of an Eastern road trip series.

That sounds good to Redleg fans but it gets tougher from here on. The final two games of the Eastern tour, starting tonight, are with the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers always cause trouble in their cozy Ebbetts Field. They pulled a game and a half ahead of Cincinnati Monday night by beating Milwaukee, but that might have been a favor to the Redlegs. That's because it shortened the distance between Cincinnati and the first place Braves.

The Reds came in here with a string of seven straight victories, all against Eastern clubs. Tonight Manager Birdie Tebbets figures to use Hal Jeffcoat or Johnny played at four points about the state— will include 16 teams. One team from each region will be selected to play in the state tournament at Columbus.

It would take a sweep of the two games here to boost the Reds ahead of Brooklyn and into second place.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, it was reported that further medical consultations will be made concerning Ted Kluszewski's back trouble. Surgery may be ordered. Big Klu has been quoted as saying that if an operation is inevitable, he wants it done immediately. Previous examinations show a "slipped disc" in his back bone as the cause of a constant hip disorder.

SCO Track Meet Slated Wednesday

The Washington C. H. Lions will join with track squads from five other high schools in the annual South Central Ohio League meet at McClain Field, Greenfield, Wednesday.

Franklin Heights, the newest member of the league, will join Hillsboro, Wilmington, Circleville and Greenfield in competition starting at 1:30 p. m.

All field events will be completed during the afternoon. Preliminaries in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the 120 and 180 hurdles will be run from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.

Following a rest period and lunch in the McClain Cafeteria, action will be resumed at 5:30 p. m. in the distance runs and the finals of the dashes.

Floodlights are not available on the field, so the meet will have to be completed by 7:30 p. m.

The Washington Senators won only one of their 11 games played in Cleveland during 1956.

Instead, the Dodgers went on to win 5-4 in 14 innings to gain a split in their two-game series at Ebbets Field.

Here's what happened. The Dodgers were at bat in the 12th, trailing 4-3, two out, runners on first and second and Carl Furillo the batter.

Burdette, who had overcome a 3-0 deficit and a warning from plate umpire Lee Ballanfant after nearly decapitating Roy Campanella with a pitch, was getting along swimmingly. Since the first inning, when Carl Furillo smashed a three-run homer, the Dodgers hadn't come within spitting distance of a run. Burdette disposed of the first two batters easily but Gino Cimoli clubbed a double for his fourth hit.

Sandy Amoros walked on a 3-2 pitch but the game apparently was over when Furillo sent a bouncer to shortstop. Just as Johnny Logan got set to field the ball, it took a bad hop over his head and Cimoli raced home with the tying run.

In the 14th, Cimoli crashed a pitch by reliever Red Murfitt into the left field stands for a home run to break up the overtime tussle.

Cimoli's fifth hit of the game further deepened Milwaukee's chagrin because the Dodger outfielder had made only four hits throughout the entire 1956 season—in 73 games—and his loudest hit was a two-bagger. To further rub it in, the Dodger victory was gained by Sandy Koufax, who retired the Braves in order in the 14th inning to gain his first major league success against them.

In the only other game in the National League, the Chicago Cubs whipped the New York Giants 6-2 to move into a seventh place tie with Pittsburgh. Young Don Kaiser hurled a six-hitter for his first victory of the year.

Kansas City, the early season surprise of the American League, broke a three-way tie for fourth place with an 8-2 victory over Washington. Baltimore dropped Detroit into sixth place, defeating the Tigers 8-6 in 13 innings.

Between them Cimoli and Furillo drove in all Brooklyn's runs and collected nine of the team's 13 hits off Burdette and loser Murfitt. Mathews and Adcock furnished all Milwaukee's runs.

Mathews walloped his second and third homers of the season and added two singles. Adcock walloped his sixth homer in the eighth but fanned four times. Hank Aaron, who entered the game with a league leading .417 batting average, went 0 for 6.

Pee Wee Reese saw action for the first time this season. The Dodger captain, who had been sidelined since opening day with a sprained back, took over at shortstop in the 10th inning but went hitless.

A six-run first inning, highlighted by rookie outfielder Jim Pisoni's grand slam homer, made it easy for Ned Garver to register his second victory with a six-hitter. Chuck Stobbs, who has yet to win, lasted just one inning and was charged with his fifth setback.

Jim Brideweser, sold last season by Detroit to Baltimore, gained revenge with a 13th-inning double that drove in Gus Triandos and Dick Williams with the tie-breaking runs. Williams had driven two runs with a bases-loaded single in the eighth to tie the score 6-6.

The victory went to George Zuverink. Jack Crimian, fifth Tiger hurler, was the loser.

A four-run explosion by Chicago in the sixth chased Giant starter Ruben Gomez. Ed Winceniak, rookie infielder, and Lee Walls, drove in two runs each for the Cubs.

53 Boys Selected for Final Little League Team Tryouts

Working carefully through the arduous process of sifting and sorting, Washington C. H. Little League officials have selected 53 boys of the 233 who originally tried out and asked them to come back for a second look at 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Biting nails, these are the 33 that managers finally decided were worth further consideration. It wasn't easy, they admit, for there was a lot of talent out on the field during every tryout session.

Every one of the boys who tried out originally will have a chance at a minor league spot, at least, player agent Max Lawrence emphasized. About 40 of the 53 called back will make the majors, he said.

Lawrence declared flatly that "This is the best year, qualitatively and quantitatively, the tryouts have had so far."

"We certainly had more talent than we expected out there," Lawrence said. He observed: "It ought to make a big improvement in the overall quality of both major and minor leagues."

BESIDES THE 53 boys, Lawrence asked that another 20 who have not yet tried out also show up at the extra session. The 53, along with the other 20, and their ages, are:

Thomas Curl, 10, Michael Beuchler, 10, Steve Oyer, 10, Danny Kelly, 10, Bart Mahoney, 10, Donald Lentz, 11, Jerry Showalter, 10, Ronnie Penrod, 10, Kent Riggs, 10, Randall Miller, 10, Jimmie Duncan, 11, John Hagerty, 10, Robert Rodenfels, 10, Billy Leasure, 10, Pat Lewis, 10, Lowell Cooper, 10, Albert Penwell, 11, Jimmy Hargoe, 11, Jimmy Everhart, 11, Ronald Dunn, 11, Gary Brandon, 10, Stephen Bennett, 12, Gale McConkey, 12; Daniel Willis, 12, Tony Striblin, 12.

Shoemaker's Boner Brings Suspension

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)—One of the biggest misuses in racing history has cost jockey Willie Shoemaker a 15-day suspension.

Churchill Downs suspended Shoemaker Monday for "gross carelessness" in misjudging the finish line in last Saturday's 83rd running of the Kentucky Derby.

Shoemaker's mount, Gallant Man, finished second in a photo finish to Calumet Farm's Iron Liege.

After the race, Shoemaker said he mistook the 16th pole for the finish line and eased up on his mount.

Officials at the Downs said their authority is limited to Kentucky, but, normally all American tracks will honor the suspension, which goes into effect tomorrow.

Shoemaker agreed the action will keep him out of the Preakness at Baltimore's Pimlico track May 18. He added he had been assigned to ride Gallant Man in that race.

Trainer Johnny Nerud said the incident was "just something that could happen to any rider. I blame the race track, not Shoemaker. They got no business putting the finish wire down near the first turn and all those poles are the same color."

A Churchill Downs spokesman who took an opposite opinion commented:

"We at Churchill Downs are of the opinion that the finish pole is the easiest of all things to distinguish at the track on Derby day."

Tigers To Play Tourney Game at Athens Thursday

District Championship At Stake for Jeff Baseball Team
The Jeffersonville High School baseball Tigers, rolling down a path that could lead to the state title, will play Amesburne High School in Athens County at 10:30 a. m. Thursday in Ohio University at Athens.

Winner of that game will be declared a district champ.

Having won the county title, as well as three elimination rounds in the district tourney, Tiger spirits are high as they go into the higher ranks. They should be, for the prize is big: a regional tournament slot in either Columbus or Dayton goes to the victor.

Actually, Thursday's game is both a semi-final and a final game in the district. It's this way: Because this southeastern district has more teams than most other districts in the state, tournament powers are allowing two champs to be crowned.

So the victor of the Jeff-Amesburne game will represent the district in one regional tourney, while the winner of a Middleport-South Webster contest will win a place in another.

Which team will play at Columbus and which at Dayton will be decided on mileage.

Redlegs Set For Battle With Brooks

BROOKLYN (AP)—The Cincinnati Redlegs today stood only two victories away from second place in the National League and a practically unheard of clean sweep of an Eastern road trip series.

That sounds good to Redleg fans but it gets tougher from here on. The final two games of the Eastern tour, starting tonight, are with the defending champion Brooklyn Dodgers.

The Dodgers always cause trouble in their cozy Ebbetts Field. They pulled a game and a half ahead of Cincinnati Monday night by beating Milwaukee, but that might have been a favor to the Redlegs. That's because it shortened the distance between Cincinnati and the first place Braves.

The Reds came in here with a string of seven straight victories, all against Eastern clubs. Tonight Manager Birdie Tebbets figures to use Hal Jeffcoat or Johnny Klippstein against Johnny Podres of the Brooks.

It would take a sweep of the two games here to boost the Reds ahead of Brooklyn and into second place.

Meanwhile, in Cincinnati, it was reported that further medical consultations will be made concerning Ted Kluszewski's back trouble.

Surgery may be ordered. Big Klu has been quoted as saying that if an operation is inevitable, he wants it done immediately. Previous examinations show a "slipped disc" in his back bone as the cause of a constant hip disorder.

Colon, Mich., is sometimes called the "Magic Carpet of the World" because its leading industry is the manufacture of magician's equipment.

The Washington Senators won only one of their 11 games played in Cleveland during 1956.

SCO Track Meet Slated Wednesday

The Washington C. H. Lions will join with track squads from five other high schools in the annual South Central Ohio League meet at McClain Field, Greenfield, Wednesday.

Franklin Heights, the newest member of the league, will join Hillsboro, Wilmington, Circleville and Greenfield in competition starting at 1:30 p. m.

All field events will be completed during the afternoon. Preliminaries in the 100 and 220 yard dashes and the 120 and 180 hurdles will be run from 1:30 to 3:30 p. m.

Following a rest period and lunch in the McClain Cafeteria, action will be resumed at 5:30 p. m. in the distance runs and the finals of the dashes.

Floodlights are not available on the field, so the meet will have to be completed by 7:30 p. m.

The Washington Senators won only one of their 11 games played in Cleveland during 1956.

Toledo Needs State for Funds

TOLEDO (AP)--Lucas County commissioners have told Gov. C. William O'Neill they may have to cut grants for poor relief and for dependent children by 20 per cent on Sept. 1 unless the state meets its matching money obligations.

County Welfare Director Michael S. Zalipski said the state has fallen more than $64,000 behind in its matching money since last December for the care of some 2,500 poor relief clients a month.

The state has an obligation of 50 per cent matching funds.

Last month, said Zalipski, matching money from the state for poor relief dropped to 42 pct.

Plans Go Awry
EMPIRE, Ore. --(AP)--David Olson, 61, was preparing to move from a trailer house into a four-room cottage.

While he was away, someone broke into the trailer and stole his clothing, groceries and a gun.

That night the cottage burned to the ground.

The first American button factory was established at Waterbury, Conn., about 1800.

Ohio Milk Price Bill Nears Vote

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio House votes today on a controversial bill which would permit state milk price controls.

The measure would create a dairy markets division in the state Department of Agriculture. The division would have authority to invoke price controls at producer levels for the 15 per cent of Ohio milk producers not now covered by federal milk marketing orders.

Opponents of the measure, mostly city dwellers, declared the proposed state law would result in a retail milk price increase of three to five cents a quart.

The House Monday, as the Legislature started a three-week stretch drive toward adjournment, voted, 77-35, to ease eligibility of low income families to occupy metropolitan housing developments.

The bill approved by the House and sent to the Senate increases from $2,400 to $3,000 a year the maximum income a couple can receive and still be permitted to live in public housing projects.

BEFORE APPROVING the higher income limit, the House rejected proposals to set the income maximum at $2,500, to cut the allowance for minor children from $200 to $100 and to eliminate the $860 leeway above the maximum that determines where a family must move out.

The Senate, without debate, passed unanimously and sent to the House a bill backed by the administration of Gov. C. William O'Neill to provide quick reimbursement to cities from state funds for highway planning and right-of-way purchases. The measure is designed to allow cash short cities to get a rapid turnover on their available money.

AFTER A ONE-DAY DELAY, the Senate was due to vote today on a measure to grant a general increase in amounts candidates for office may spend in their campaigns.

The Senate also was scheduled to vote today on a bill to create an industrial development division in the State Commerce Department. The new division would include the present State Aviation Board and the present Development and Publicity Commission.

The House Monday passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

Help development of regional water and sewer districts by easing present restrictions on the is-

The next meeting of the Central Ohio Gun and Indian Relic Assn. to be held in the Merchants Building on the Fayette County Fairgrounds May 25 and 26, is expected to break all previous records for number of exhibitors, exhibits, and attendance. Office Stookey, one of the officials, said Tuesday.

Inquiries from several states indicate that the out-of-state attendance will be larger than usual, and reports also indicate that the number of Ohioans and visitors will exceed previous shows, Stookey said.

Opportunities In Teaching Cited to FTA

W. A. Smith, superintendent of Washington C. H. schools, stressed the broad range of opportunities available to the teachers of today and tomorrow during a special program at a meeting of the Washington High School Future Teachers of America Monday.

The exceptional responsibilities carried by a teacher, as well as the rigorous training required, are making more and more people appreciate the value of good teachers in a good society, Smith said.

This is leading both to better financial opportunities for teachers and to greater community respect for people in the teaching profession, he pointed out.

A film, "No Greater Gift," produced by the Ohio Department of Education, was shown. The broad range of teaching opportunities and the many reasons for choosing a career in education were emphasized.

SENIORS in the group will be special guests at a May Breakfast sponsored by the organization May 14 at the Hotel Washington, it was announced. Linda Halliday is in charge of arrangements and Marilyn Miller and Carolyn Buxton are assisting her.

Mrs. Jane Grillo, club sponsor, reported on the elementary school observation program sponsored by the club.

Joyce Hamilton, next year's FTA president, was presented by Nancy Reno, the retiring president.

Letters of commendation from Miss Jennie Davis, president of the Ohio Education Assn., have been presented to Nancy Reno, Sandra Cook, Carolyn Crago, Janis Gillen, Nancy Hurltt, Linda Rice, Sara Terhune and Wanda Tracey, for their decision to pursue teaching careers.

Ohio Milk Price Bill Nears Vote

COLUMBUS (AP)—The Ohio House votes today on a controversial bill which would permit state milk price controls.

The measure would create a dairy markets division in the state Department of Agriculture. The division would have authority to invoke price controls at producer levels for the 15 per cent of Ohio milk producers not now covered by federal milk marketing orders.

Opponents of the measure, mostly city dwellers, declared the proposed state law would result in a retail milk price increase of three to five cents a quart.

The House Monday, at the Legislature started a three-week stretch drive toward adjournment, voted, 77-35, to ease eligibility of low income families to occupy metropolitan housing developments.

The bill approved by the House and sent to the Senate increases from $2,400 to $3,000 a year the maximum income a couple can receive and still be permitted to live in public housing projects.

BEFORE APPROVING the higher income limit, the House rejected proposals to set the income maximum at $2,500, to cut the allowance for minor children from $200 to $100 and to eliminate the $860 leeway above the maximum that determines where a family must move out.

The Senate, without debate, passed unanimously and sent to the House a bill backed by the administration of Gov. C. William O'Neill to provide quick reimbursement to cities from state funds for highway planning and right-of-way purchases. The measure is designed to allow cash-short cities to get a rapid turnover on their available money.

After a one-day delay, the Senate was due to vote today on a measure to grant a general increase in amounts candidates for office may spend in their campaigns.

The Senate also was scheduled to vote today on a bill to create an industrial development division in the State Commerce Department. The new division would include the present State Aviation Board and the present Development and Publicity Commission.

The House Monday passed and sent to the Senate bills to:

Help development of regional water and sewer districts by easing present restrictions on the issuance and sale of revenue bonds. Permit emergency bond issues for school and land furnishings and provide property assessments for improvements, such as sewers, in new subdivisions where easements take the place of alleys.

INCREASE from $1 to $3 a day the credit for time spent in jail by hunting and fishing law violators.

Require garages and other dealers to obtain certificates of title from owners who junk cars.

The Senate passed and sent to the House a bill permitting school boards to buy insurance to protect school officials, teachers and employees from financial loss resulting from negligent acts.

The Senate Education Committee is expected to act tonight on a bill seeking to reimpose movie censorship in Ohio. State review and licensing of films to be shown in Ohio was abandoned more than two years ago after court rulings that the law was too vague in its definition of obscenity.

Opportunities In Teaching Cited to FTA

W. A. Smith, superintendent of Washington C. H. schools, stressed the broad range of opportunities available to the teachers of today and tomorrow during a special program at a meeting of the Washington High School Future Teachers of America Monday.

The exceptional responsibilities carried by a teacher, as well as the rigorous training required, are making more and more people appreciate the value of good teachers in a good society, Smith said.

This is leading both to better financial opportunities for teachers and to greater community respect for people in the teaching profession, he pointed out.

A film, "No Greater Gift," produced by the Ohio Department of Education, was shown. The broad range of teaching opportunities and the many reasons for choosing a career in education were emphasized.

SENIORS in the group will be special guests at a May Breakfast sponsored by the organization May 14 at the Hotel Washington, it was announced. Linda Halliday is in charge of arrangements and Marilyn Miller and Carolyn Buxton are assisting her.

Mrs. Jane Grillot, club sponsor, reported on the elementary school observation program sponsored by the club.

Joyce Hamilton, next year's FTA president, was presented by Nancy Reno, the retiring president.

Letters of commendation from Miss Jennie Davis, president of the Ohio Education Assn., have been presented to Nancy Reno, Sandra Cook, Carolyn Crago, Janis Gillen, Nancy Hurltt, Linda Rice, Sara Terhune and Wanda Tracey, for their decision to pursue teaching careers.
